BIG CHICAGO CONVENTION IS GOT UNDER WAY

With 1,000 Delegates in Attendance, Republican Party Starts Sessions Which Are Expected to Culminate in Renomination of Hoover and New Policy on Liquor

Associated Press

Chicago, June 14. — Heading toward a new party deal on prohibition, the Republican National Convention assembled today in the Chicago Stadium prepared to give President Hoover another four-year grant of leadership, but bent on a platform proposing the dry amendment be put on trial for its life.

The proceedings started at 11 a.m. central daylight time. When the 1,000 delegates were in their places, with the first-day spectators in the public galleries, the convention was formally called to order by Senator Simeon Fess of Ohio, national chairman.

OPENING SPEECH

The high point of to-day's business was delivery of the party keynote speech by Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, who, like all Republican keynoters, had taken pains to word his speech to offend no one but the Democrats.

The manuscript was voluminous, and the reading style of delivery does not greatly become the rough-and-ready, bushy-haired Iowan, but Senator Dickinson had learned well how to stir his listeners at fitful periods with special outbursts of praise for Republicans.

PROHIBITION VOTE

As it emerged in the early hours of this morning from a conference extraordinary of convention chiefs, the compromise plank on prohibition, the one big convention issue, favors submission of a new amendment, giving the states the right to decide for themselves and promising federal co-operation with those that want to be dry. It would not recommend whether such an amendment be ratified or rejected.

The presumption was that the plank would be acceptable to Mr. Hoover. Several of his cabinet members were in the all-night conference which drafted it.

More than a fair prospect appeared that it would be supported by many of the warring wets and drys, although a later floor fight still was threatened by those who want the party to go all the way over to repeal.

The platform committee, to be named late to-day under the chairmanship of James R. Garfield of Ohio, still must wrestle with the problem before it comes to the convention at all.

VICE-PRESIDENCY

Second place in the speculation and concern of leaders and delegates was held by the question of the vice-presidency. Not only does a murmur of opposition to the renomination of Charles Curtis run through many dele-

CHILE JUNTA ON MIDDLE COURSE

Has New Leader; Foreign Interests Declared Not Threatened

Associated Press

Santiago, Chile, June 14—Chile's revolutionary junta was complete again to-day and new hope was extended to foreign investors whose interests run into hundreds of millions.

Rolando Merino, Minister of the Interior, chosen by the remaining members of the junta yesterday evening to fill the place of Carlos Davila, was in office to-day. Davila resigned Sunday evening.

Finance Minister Alfredo Lagarrigue announced nothing detrimental to any foreign interest was in immediate prospect.

BANK PLANS

He also announced the Junta's previous plan to take over Chile's central bank and fuse it with a newly-formed state bank would be dropped and the central bank would continue to function independently.

The Finance Minister said the new government would guarantee the present nitrate work would be maintained, but that the Coasch combine would be required to hand over the necessary letters of credit for foreign exchange.

The Minister of Finance to-day ordered a 30-day moratorium on debts owed by retail merchants, and also extended all loans held by such merchants at the national savings banks.

Fraser River Level Rising Rapidly To-day

Eleven Inches Up in Twenty-four Hours, Gauge at Mission Shows

Canadian Press

New Westminster, June 14—That the annual freshet on the Fraser River has started in earnest is stated by Dominion Public Works officials here, and the height to which the river will rise depends on how long hot weather continues in the interior of the province.

At 8 a.m. to-day the reading on the gauge at Mission was sixteen feet nine inches, showing a rise of eleven inches since 8 a.m. yesterday. The average over several years of the freshet peak is eighteen feet six inches, according to gauge readings at Mission, and danger does not threaten until a height of more than twenty-one feet is reached.

Next Sunday night there will be a very high tide—fourteen feet six inches at the Sandheads—which will add temporarily to the river's height in the lower reaches.

Story Comes From Ship of Rescue of Transatlantic Flier

After Days of Silence, Captain of Circe Shell Radioes Thrilling Story of How Stanislaus Hausner Was Sighted on Tail of His Sinking Plane and Picked Up Following Eight Days of Drifting in Sea

Ss. Circe Shell, June 14.—"I'm Stanley Hausner; save my ship."

With these words the Polish flier who had drifted many miles on the Atlantic on his wrecked airplane greeted us when we found him.

He literally fell into the lifeboat which we had lowered to fetch him, and he was helped aboard my ship in almost complete darkness.

WAITED EIGHT DAYS

"Thanks very much, captain. I've been waiting for you for eight days," he said.

Then he collapsed.

He almost missed being rescued, for the darkness was falling rapidly.

It was very difficult to see, but the lookout on the Circe Shell sighted something ahead. It looked like a drifting buoy, but he could make out some peculiar markings on the top.

He picked up his long glass and trained it on the object. He saw then that what he had thought was a buoy was really an airplane with its tail stuck up in the air.

Right away when he had told me what he had seen I stepped to engine-room telegraph and signalled my engineer to cut the speed.

We slowed down and moved closer. We got to within one mile of the derelict, and then I stopped the ship. We drifted and slowly closed in.

WAVED HIS ARMS

My men, watching from the rail, were amazed to see the figure of a man on the ship's stern, and the figure moved. He waved frantically. We could see now he was not lashed down.

MURDOCH FACES VERNON JURY

Ex-Police Chief of Kelowna Charged With Murdering Miss Jean Nolan

Canadian Press

Vernon, B.C., June 14.—A man pilloried and possessed by the idea the hand of every man was against him, moving from place to place in a vain search for peace of mind and security, until tragedy snarled his tangled life and placed him on trial for life.

This was the story unfolded by Mrs. David Murdoch in the assize court here to-day when she testified at the trial of her husband, David Murdoch, former chief constable at Kelowna, accused of the murder of Jean Nolan at Kelowna on the afternoon of January 19.

While Mrs. Murdoch, a pleasant, wholesome looking Belgian woman, told the court the story of her life with the accused, her husband, seated a few feet away in the prisoner's box, appeared disinterested in the proceedings and not once looked at her. Nor did he show any interest when Milton Gonzales, counsel for the defence, submitted a series of letters purporting to have been written by Murdoch to Miss Nolan.

WEPT AT TIMES

At times, however, he silently wept and his face became suffused with blood, although he made no movement and kept his eyes closed.

FIRE SWEEPS PRAIRIE TOWN

Hotel, Garage, Dance Hall and Other Buildings in Killaly Destroyed

Guests and Owners Able to Save Some of Contents of Hotel

Canadian Press

Killaly, Sask., June 14. — Fire early to-day caused losses totaling about $50,000 in this hamlet of 200 persons about 110 miles northeast of Regina. The buildings destroyed included a hotel, garage, implement shop, dance hall, poolroom and livery barn.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruch were dressing in the hotel at 7.30 this morning when they noticed flames and smoke coming from the garage two doors away. Hastily they aroused the guests of the hotel and turned in an alarm. There is no fire fighting equipment at Killaly and a call was put in for assistance at Neudorf and Grayson, ten miles away.

Killaly folk immediately formed bucket brigades, but they were powerless. The flames roared from the garage to the poolroom and dance hall, through which they swept like a gust of wind. The hotel was next to fall, but not before the guests and owners had saved some of its contents. From the hotel the fire spread to the livery stable at the rear.

In the meantime reinforcements had arrived from Neudorf and Grayson, and with the aid of chemicals finally subdued the blaze.

No one was in the garage when the fire started, and it is believed to have started when a truck battery was short circuited.

Some insurance was carried on the wrecked buildings.

New Japanese Tariff Affects B.C.'s Trade

Duties on Douglas Fir Increased; Shipments of Wheat Also to Bear Increased Levy

Canadian Press

Ottawa, June 14.—The Department of Trade and Commerce and the Japanese Legation here have been advised of the tariff changes approved by the parliament of Japan.

Canada's export trade with Japan during the calendar year 1931, totaled $15,695,822.

Important items of export will be affected by the changes, which, in certain cases, are very material. Twenty-odd articles are affected, and of these the Dominion is particularly interested in the changes in the duties on Douglas fir, wheat and wheat flour.

B.C.'S FIR EXPORTS

One of the most important changes so British Columbia is that on wood. Classifications under the Japanese tariff do not correspond with those in the Canadian tariff, but British Columbia has had an appreciable trade in Douglas fir logs with Japan. During the calendar year 1931 exports of Canadian Douglas fir to Japan totaled 52,236 thousand feet, valued at $284,-

NEW ANGLE IN SHARPE CASE

Now Discovered Mrs. Morrow's Maid, Who Ended Life, Was Married

British Consul-General at New York to Report to London on Her Death

Associated Press

Englewood, N.J., June 14—The death certificate of Violet Sharpe, the maid at Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow's home, who committed suicide by poisoning, was filed to-day, stating she was married, "name of husband unknown."

The filing of the certificate was the first intimation the young woman who took her life when police called to continue their examination of her in connection with the Lindbergh baby abduction case, was married.

The certificate was signed by Ralph Gilady, Bergin county physician who performed the autopsy.

The paper noted that burial would be carried out to-morrow in the Brookside cemetery, Englewood.

REPORT ASKED

London, June 14—The British consul-general at New York has been instructed to submit to the Foreign Secretary a report on the death of Violet Sharpe, English servant girl, who committed suicide last week at the home of Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow in Englewood, N.J.

The girl's death and subsequent developments which indicated she was not involved in the abduction of the Lindbergh baby created in this country sharp criticism of the New Jersey police, who were charged with terrifying her by their questioning.

NEW SERVANT

Englewood, N.J., June 14.—The place left vacant in Mrs. Dwight Morrow's household by the suicide of Violet Sharpe, English maid, already has been filled, and both the family and servants have again picked up the daily routine interrupted by the latest tragic touch of the Lindbergh baby abduction.

Mrs. Dwight Morrow, her son, Dwight, and her youngest daughter, Constance, to-day were finishing the packing of their luggage for a European voyage to join Miss Elisabeth Morrow, the eldest daughter, who arrived in England last Wednesday.

NEWFOUNDLAND VOTE LANDSLIDE

Opposition Wins at Least 21 Seats Out of 27 in Legislature

Canadian Press

St. Johns, Nfld., June 14.—With the seat of St. Barbe conceded to the opposition candidate, Capt. George Whiteley, and the final return from Green Bay giving victory to the government standard bearer, R. J. Starks, the standing at noon to-day in the Newfoundland general election held last Saturday was: opposition 21, government two, Independent one, and three seats to be heard from. The unreported constituents are Burego, Bonavista, North Bay and White Bay. There are twenty-seven seats in the Legislative Assembly.

Himself defeated in Trinity South, Premier Sir Richard Squires saw the opposition leader, Hon. F. C. Alderdice, with his own seat assured, and only Humber won for the government besides. Green Bay. In Humber Hon. F. C. Bradley was elected.

Lady Helena Squires, wife of the Prime Minister, was defeated in Twillingate, where she was opposed by Norman Gray.

HONEST GOVERNMENT

In an interview Mr. Alderdice said the mandate given his party was a declaration for honest and efficient administration.

"I regard the results as a notable and impressive victory won by the people of Newfoundland," he said. "It is conclusive evidence of the country's intention to set its house in order and show the rest of the Empire and the world in general its firm intention to face its difficulties with determination and courage and overcome them. It is an unmistakeable demand for honest and efficient administration.

"To this I and my party are pledged, and to give them this we shall do our utmost. With such a mandate, the party which I have the honor to lead finds new inspiration for the task that has been entrusted to us; and by the application of the progressive industrial policy, by exercising economy and by affording encouragement of outside capital for investment in the development of the Dominion's rich natural resources, we foresee in the not far distant future Newfoundland's recovery

Prince Tadatsugu Shimadzu, youthful descendant of the Satsuma line, with Dr. Shigeru Matsui of Tokio, delegates from the Japanese Red Cross Society to the Second International Conference of Social Work at Frankfort-on-Main, Germany, arrived in the city aboard the President Madison this morning from Japan.

Prince Shimadzu, who is traveling as plain Mr. Tadatsugu Shimadzu, is twenty-nine years of age, and makes his home at Kagoshima, on the island of Kyushu in southern Japan.

The Prince stated that it was his first visit to Victoria and explained that his initial impressions of Canada were particularly pleasant. The city was bathed in warm sunshine as the Japanese travelers disembarked from the ship to take a look around before continuing their voyage to Seattle.

DIRECTOR OF SOCIAL WORK

Dr. Matsui is director of the National Association of Social Work and the National Federation of Social Betterment Work, vice-president of the fire brigade association and adviser to the police academy of the Department of Home Affairs at Tokio. He handed five cards describing his numerous titles to newspapermen on arrival.

The Japan Red Cross originated in the voluntary relief service under the name of "Hakuaisha" administered to the sick and wounded at the seat of hostilities during the Kagoshima civil war on May 1, 1877. In November 1886 the Japanese government joined in the Geneva convention and the Japan Red Cross, by modifying its constitution in March 1887 and changing its name to the Japan Red Cross So-4

Doukhobors to Grow Their Own Food on Island Near Victoria

Women to Be Sent To Eastern Canada

Necessary Alterations at D'Arcy Island to Be Carried Out Immediately

D'Arcy Island, famous as a leper colony until a few years ago, will become the home of 250 Doukhobor men, sentenced to serve three years each for nudist parading at Thrums and Grand Forks.

Announcement of the creation of the island prison settlement was made this morning by Oscar C. Bass, K.C., deputy attorney-general, on receipt of word from Ottawa.

The Dominion Government will at once erect additional buildings and other accommodation required for the use of the prisoners, who will be transported to D'Arcy Island, under guard of Royal Canadian Mounted Police. As fast as quarters can be prepared the prisoners will be placed on the island.

It is the intention of the federal government to provide the Doukhobors with agricultural implements, with which they can raise foodstuffs for their own maintenance. They will be supervised in their labors, and it is hoped they will become almost self-supporting.

D'Arcy Island has an area of about 200 acres, mostly cultivable. It is situated in Haro Straits, but has not been used as a leper colony for several years. It has been closely inspected by medical officials and has been given a clean bill of health.

Prior to deciding up D'Arcy Island as the site of the coast prison colony, the federal government considered a number of other islands off the east coast of Vancouver Island. Sidney Island was mentioned. It is in part owned by the provincial government as a result of failure of the brickworks financed by the Provincial Department of Industries. This property is understood to have been rejected because of protests from brick interests against possibility of competition in the brick market by Doukhobor prisoners being employed in the abandoned brick works.

Knapp Island and Pier Island, owned by Col. James Harvey, were tendered the federal government, and with other islands were inspected by J. P. Forde and S. M. Ross. It is understood the asked price for Pier Island was $30,000. It is believed economy was one of the principal reasons for the decision to locate the Doukhobor prisoners on D'Arcy Island, which was already the property of the Dominion.

SCATTER WOMEN

It is understood at the Parliament Buildings the federal authorities have decided to scatter the Doukhobor women under sentence among a large number of federal institutions in eastern Canada. The women are each under sentence to serve three years each for nudist parades.

TAX BILL SIGNED

Washington, June 14. — President Hoover to-day signed the first amendment to the new tax law—one designed to collect $40,000,000 to $50,000,000 by applying the excise levies to deliveries made to persons other than dealers before May 1.

EXPLOSION HURTS TWO STUDENTS

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 14.—Injured in an explosion of chemicals with which they were experimenting in the laboratory of the Vancouver Technical School on East Broadway, two students were badly burned about their faces and hands shortly after 11 this forenoon, according to reports to police.

The youths, Edwin Caston, aged fourteen, of Barclay Street, and Charles Gilbert, aged sixteen, of West Sixth, are reported to have been making gunpowder when the explosion occurred.

Gilbert was the most seriously injured, having suffered severe burns about the eyes, face and hands. His injuries were of such a serious nature that he was removed to the General Hospital in an ambulance for treatment.

Flow From Reservoir Restricted For Time; Stoppage When Gates Reopened; Western Sections of City Affected

Vancouver, June 14.—Unprecedented shortage of water in the western high-level sections of Vancouver yesterday evening resulted in part from the action of Greater Vancouver Water District officials in restricting the flow from the Little Mountain Reservoir for some time, according to a statement today by City Engineer Charles Brakenridge.

Although there was virtually a water famine in portions of Point Grey and Kerrisdale between 5 and 10 yesterday evening, the level of the water in the reservoir was six feet eight inches this morning, while the minimum in the last few days was five feet six inches.

RESTRICTED FLOW

Mr. Brakenridge stated the watchman in charge of the reservoir reopened the gates shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday evening, but that some stoppage occurred almost immediately and the flow continued restricted.

WATER WASTE AT NANAIMO

Restrictions May Be Necessary, Alderman Dixon Tells Council

Special to The Times

Nanaimo, June 14.—At the city council meeting yesterday evening Alderman Dixon complained of citizens wasting water. He stated the dam had dropped 5 inches on Sunday and there were 1,000,000 gallons a day coming in the dam and water used was over 200 gallons a head. Restrictions would have to be put on unless citizens were more careful.

The legislative committee in reporting on the petition from the Ratepayers' Association against an increase of the tax rate and water rate, stated the rate had already been struck and the by-law passed before the petition was received. The time for striking the rate under the Municipal Act had passed.

The council considered the tax to be the lowest possible minimum on which the city business could be conducted. The council's action was justified.

Referring to the water rate protest, the committee reported it would not be necessary to proceed with the by-law if the taxes paid exceed expectations. Petitions were received and filed.

Motion was passed that debentures issued under the Corporation of the City of Nanaimo Local Improvement Consolidation By-law No. 511, 1932, be made payable at the Canadian Bank of Commerce at Nanaimo, Toronto, Winnipeg, Victoria and Vancouver at the holder's option.

Candidature For Re-election Announced at Stormy Ward Seven Meeting

Resolution Protesting Municipal Temporary Employment of Reeve's Daughter Adopted

Announcement by Reeve William Crouch that he would seek re-election next January as chief magistrate of Saanich featured a stormy meeting of Saanich residents, held yesterday evening at Tillicum School at the call of the Ward Seven, Saanich Ratepayers' Association, G. S. Eden, ex-councillor, was chairman and J. Pickard acted as secretary. About fifty men and women were present.

The meeting was called exclusively to consider registration of a formal protest against a daughter of Reeve Crouch being employed temporarily on preparation of the annual tax bills at the municipal hall.

The following resolution, moved by H. H. Grist of Ward Seven and seconded by Hector Fink of Ward Four, was adopted: "That in view of the present unemployment situation, particularly in Saanich, of which the reeve is fully aware, this meeting of ratepayers of Saanich has learned with surprise and regret of the action of the reeve in placing his daughter in employment at the municipal hall.

"And that the council be respectfully requested to cancel the appointment and, if necessary, place some competent taxpayer that may need it in temporary employment;

"And that the secretary having reported that the clerk's son was employed upon painting, if this be so that he be replaced."

A number of persons did not vote.

SAW NO FRIENDS

While the resolution was under debate Reeve Crouch refused to participate in the proceedings, but afterwards accepted an invitation to the platform. He charged that the meeting comprised "the same old gang which had never said a good word for me," the statement arousing much protest. "There are over 700 votes in Ward Seven and each election I get 500 of them. I was going to retire at the end of this year, but now I am not. Instead I am going to test my strength again. I shall be in the field at the next election," he announced.

"Regarding employment of my daughter at the municipal hall on temporary work, why should she not be employed? The reeve gets no pay. He is not a salaried employee. All he gets is an indemnity," he asserted.

CHAIRMAN PROTESTS

Stating that Miss Crouch had been employed for some years, four being engaged each summer without council opposition, the reeve aroused protests from the chairman, who said that, when a councillor, he had registered opposition to employment of the reeve's daughter as inadvisable. He also stated that only two girls had been sufficient for the work during the years he held office.

Reeve Crouch retorted that all present knew of the chairman's enmity for him and declared:

"This ward association is dominated by a handful of my opponents. They never do anything for Saanich. Take this proposal to bring the gas mains into Saanich, have any of the group turned a hand to help?"

When the reeve pointed out that Saanich had not experienced taxation increases, Mr. Fink sought to intervene, but the reeve continued, "Oh, yes, the gang's all here, but I'm here, too, to show you all that the reeve is not afraid of you."

Reeve Crouch left the meeting amid applause, mingled with a chorus of demands that he say and hear further comments of a political character.

William Murphy, an ex-councillor, said: "I am bound to say that I do not think Mr. Crouch knows the difference between right and wrong."

John Kelly stoutly defended Reeve Crouch, asserting: "Why pick on Mr. Crouch for this dirty work you have in hand?"

"EVERY MEETING A KNOCK"

E. Wilkinson supported Reeve Crouch's assertion that leaders of Ward Seven had taken no action to improve conditions in Saanich, either at meetings or individually, declaring: "We are not doing a darned thing. Every meeting I have attended here has been a knock."

Mr. Wilkinson believed taxes in Saanich were too low and needed public improvements, could be financed by debenture issues.

The chairman expressed sympathy with Mr. Wilkinson's complaint, forecasting a deficit of over $30,000 this year. He announced that a small group was already preparing a schedule of proposals for consideration at the meetings to be held next fall.

DRASTIC CHANGES

A number of allegations of multiple office-holding by members of the families of municipal officials were made earlier in the evening, and Mrs. Davis and Mr. Kelly having defended the reeve and municipal clerk, a chorus shouted "the whole municipal hall should be cleared out." Mr. Fink added, "This reminds me of Sullivan's opera Pinafore, written to burlesque just such situations as this with 'His cousins and his sisters and his uncles and his aunts.'"

The meeting desired to send a strong delegation to Royal Oak to verbally support the written resolution, but no volunteers could be secured. The chairman nominated H. Porter of Ward Two and Mr. Fink to act but excused them when, some minutes having been devoted to fruitlessly calling for volunteers to support the appointees, many of the audience chorussed "use the mails." The proposal to personally submit the resolution of protest was then abandoned.

Orillia, Ont., June 14.—The cooperage works of G. Leo Milligan here lay in ruins to-day. Fire yesterday evening swept the plant, causing losses estimated at $25,000. Firemen succeeded in saving adjacent piles of wood and nearby buildings. Origin of the blaze is unknown.

ASSIZE TRIAL DELAY SCORED

Chief Justice Morrison Speaks Plainly to Counsel at Vernon

Canadian Press

Vernon, B.C., June 14.—One acquittal, two true bills and severe criticism of counsel for failing to have cases ready to be proceeded with, featured the first day of the spring assizes here yesterday.

George Dillabough, Sicamous, was found not guilty of a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of John Chester Kendrick, who was accidentally shot while hunting last fall.

True bills were returned in the cases of Charles Sismey, Keremeos, accused of theft and falsifying of books, and Fred Kazakoff, Doukhobor youth, charged on a statutory offence.

The court adjourned at 5 p.m.

Failure of counsel to produce Sismey when a true bill was returned in his case and unreadiness of counsel in two civil cases drew criticism from Chief Justice Morrison.

"This practice is an insult to the administration of justice," the Chief Justice declared. "We are all trying to economize. I am willing to do my share, and yet you wrangle, adjourn and fool with the courts.

"Why we should glorify the Sismey case above that of Kazakoff I do not know, except that Kazakoff, poor devil, has no friends."

Big Chicago Convention Is Got Under Way

gations, but Charles G. Dawes' statement of renunciation in Washington yesterday did not stop efforts by his admirers. Iowa went so far as to endorse him by resolution. Texas indicated it might be for him and Illinois debated whether it should not press its campaign in his behalf.

The prospects continued to point toward a Curtis renomination, when nominations are reached on Thursday, but something at last may depend on the result of the prohibition struggle, which must be settled first.

The proceedings at the Chicago convention to-day were brought by radio to as many citizens of Victoria as had the opportunity and desire to tune in. Not only Senator D. Dickinson's speech, but most of the other convention noises, such as cheers, calls and handclapping, were plainly heard in this city, including the repeated appeals of Chairman Fess for less noise.

By Ken Clark, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Chicago, June 14.—In a keynote speech entirely silent on the prohibition question the Republican National Convention to-day was told by Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa that:

President Herbert Hoover had prevented a financial panic in the United States, maintained social order, mitigated unemployment distress and preserved the international financial structure. By inference the President was compared with Abraham Lincoln.

Senator Dickinson also generously and generally defended all Republican policies. In these distressful times there was just "one bulwark of salvation for the United States," he shouted, and that was the Hawley-Smoot Tariff Act. The federal government had given agriculture $1,000,000,000 during the last three years, and the Farm Board had stemmed a panic in agricultural prices.

The keynote entoned his eulogy of President Hoover and Republicanism in the red, white and blue auditorium of the Stadium to an accompaniment of handclapping and cheers from the 1,000 delegates and thousands of visitors. He did not fail properly to tar and feather the Democarts.

FLAYS DEMOCRATS

For two long years, he said, the Democrats had hampered President Hoover at every turn, belittled his efforts, impugned his motives, frustrated every move by their roders to "smear Hoover." They had painted a dreadful picture of ruin and horror—public confidence shaken and pessimism rampant. They had called for inflation wheras the safety of the coutnry required the maintenance of the gold standard and the maintenance of the value of the dollar. With fine scorn he pointed out that while Democarts and inveighed against the Hawley-Smoot Act, they had "generously supported import duties on copper, coal, oil anl lumber."

If the speech indicated anything, it was that this convention is going to be a nice, harmonious, if noisy, group of Republicans, who will take the machine-made regular line in economics, alcoholics and everything else.

AT WORK EARLY

Senator Dickinson called for the re-election of Herbert Hoover as a "dependable means" toward the restoration of "normal conditions." He said Mr. Hoover had been at "grips" with the depression before the United States as a whole realized what it faced.

"His first act prevented a financial panic," he said, adding that the chief executive had invoked Federal Reserve Board powers to cushion the effects of the stock market debacle.

Conferences with industrial and labor leaders, Senator Dickinson said, prevented bloody disturbances such as had attended other economic crises.

RELIEF PROPOSALS

The relief proposals of John Nance Garner, Speaker of the House of Representatives, which already had been lambasted by the chief executive as a "pork barrel" measure, was assailed by Senator Dickinson. He charged also that measures sponsored by the Democrats threatened to debase the dollar.

The organizing of farmers into co-operatives for the marketing of their products was termed the outstanding accomplishment of the Farm Board.

The board was also given credit for bolstering the price of wheat and cotton through stabilization efforts. The profit to the farmers as a result was estimated at between $2,000,000,000 and $3,000,000,000.

SEES CHANCE FOR DEMOCRAT

Robert E. Manly, Philippine Delegate to Chicago, Foreshadows "Dark Horse"

Declares Prohibition Platform Is Firebrand For Both U.S. Parties

Robert Emmet Manly, U.S. Democratic national committeeman for the Philippine Islands, who went out with the troops when Admiral Dewey captured Manila Bay, reached Victoria today by the Ss. President Madison, en route to Chicago to attend the Democratic Convention which opens on June 27.

Mr. Manly has attended every Democratic convention within the last forty years and he thinks he is good for a few more conventions. He is a plantation owner on Luzon Island, the largest of the Philippine group.

CHANCES GOOD

"If the Democratic party does not make too many mistakes at the Chicago convention, the Democrats should nominate a candidate who will have an excellent opportunity of being elected as president of the U.S. republic," declared Mr. Manly to-day.

The visiting Democrat displayed interest in the Republican Convention, which opened its session in Chicago to-day. There appeared to be no doubt in his mind about President Herbert Hoover being returned as the republican candidate, but he did express doubt as to the success of the republican candidate at the forthcoming elections.

POWERFUL INFLUENCE

Alfred Smith, former presidential candidate, will wield a powerful influence over the democratic convention at Chicago, but in the opinion of Mr. Manly it is doubtful whether he will receive the nomination.

Franklin Roosevelt, governor of New York, stands high in the party's nomination register, but as Mr. Manly pointed out, there are other aspirants for the office, and there is always the possibility of a "dark horse" being introduced to carry the voting strength of the convention.

James Cox, who has previously sought presidential honors, and James W. Davis, candidate for the United States presidency in 1924, are names that are mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination.

Resubmission of the Eighteenth Amendment and the economic problems of the day will figure prominently in the platform of the Democratic party, the committeeman from the Philippines said. He thought the party would go to the country at least on the question of resubmission, if not for repeal.

"The question of prohibition is a firebrand for both parties," said Mr. Manly. The eastern states, he said, were wet, while the southern and western states were dry.

The Democrats will hold a preliminary conference in Chicago on June 23, to "clear the decks" for the convention to be opened four days later. This is a new innovation for democratic conventions.

GOVERNOR POPULAR

Mr. Manly, speaking of the Philippine Islands, said that Governor Theodore Roosevelt was popular with the Filipinos. "He is a bundle of energy, and is making himself solid with the natives," he said.

He cited the excellent work of Governor Roosevelt among the warlike Moros recently on Mindanao Island.

From the bridge I watched them row away. When they were about fifty feet from the airplane they hailed him, and the flier answered in English.

SEA WAS ROUGH

There was a rough sea running, and it was getting worse, and we were afraid the airplane might founder at any moment.

But my men were able to reach it in time to take off the exhausted aviator.

Almost all of my Chinese crew had gathered aot the rail in the excitement to greet the unexpected flier when he was taken aboard.

It was then forty-five minutes after the first sighting and night had fallen. I endeavored to obtain a coherent statement from him as soon as he showed signs of revival, but his exhausted condition made this unfeasible.

REGAINING STRENGTH

Therefore we contented ourselves with supplying Hausaner with his immediate necessities of water and food. An examination revealed only superficial cuts, bruises and sores, all external injuries and none of them serious.

At the time of my sending this radio the airman is progressing splendidly. He did not sustain any obvious internal injuries, but continues seemingly incapable of discussing his experiences.

It was amazingly fortunate we encountered him at the time we did, as by midnight the weather had turned hazy and four hours later a dense fog set in.

STEAK AND MUSHROOMS

New York, June 14.—While Polish people of New York City were arranging a reception for Stanislaus Hausner, New York to Warsaw flier who drifted in the wreckage of his plane on the Atlantic for a week, 500 miles west of the coast of Portugal, his wife today said she would have a big, juicy steak and mushrooms ready for his homecoming.

"That's his favorite dish," said Mrs. Martha Hausner, "and he will be well enough to eat it by then."

The small British tanker Circe Shell, making a leisurely voyage, is expected to reach New Orleans about two weeks hence.

For two and a half days efforts had been made to get a first hand story by radio from the Circe Shell, but details of the rescue of Hausner, "mystery man of aviation," were slow in coming because of the limitations of the ship's short range radio equipment.

TEN PERISH IN APARTMENT BLAZE

Trapped when a gas explosion shot flames through a six-story apartment and business block in downtown Cleveland, O., ten were killed and thirty injured in a $750,000 fire. Sleeping occupants of the building were blown from their beds shortly after midnight and in half an hour the structure was a mass of flames with every available piece of fire apparatus in the city pouring water into the crumpling floors. This exceptional general view shows flames shooting through the roof and part of the crowd that jammed the surrounding blocks.

The changes in the Japanese tariff on Douglas fir, cut, sawn or split, are announced as follows:

Not exceeding sixty millimetres in thickness:

Present tariff, 4.55 yen per cubic metre, revised tariff 6.60 yen per cubic metre. (The yen at present exchange rates is approximately 37 cents).

Not exceeding 200 millimetres in thickness:

Present tariff 3.90 yen per cubic metre, revised tariff 5.60 yen per cubic metre.

Exceeding 200 millimetres in thickness:

Present tariff 2.10 yen per cubic metre, revised tariff 3.40 yen per cubic metre.

Logs and cants:

Exceeding 10 metres in length and not exceeding 30 centimetres in diameter at top end, present tariff free. (Not revised).

Others:

Present tariff 1.20 yen per cubic metre, revised tariff 2.50 yen per cubic metre.

WHEAT DUTIES

In the case of wheat, the Japanese tariff has been increased from 1.50 yen per 100 kin to 2.50 yen per 100 kin. A kin is approximately one and one-third pounds. The former duty was around 25 cents a bushel and under the new rate will work out at around 42 cents a bushel.

Of wheat, Canada exported to Japan in the calendar year 1931, 6,976,352 bushels, valued at $3,870,228.

The Japanese tariff against wheat flour has been increased from 2.90 yen per 100 kin to 4.30 yen for the same quantity. Of this commodity Canada exported 169,755 barrels valued at $503,842 during the calendar year 1931.

DUTY ON BUTTER

On butter the tariff has been increased by Japan from 33.65 yen per 100 kin to 45.60 yen per 100 kin. This is the French conventional tariff, of which Canada gets the benefit. Canada, however, has been exporting very little butter to Japan. During the calendar year 1931, exports of this commodity to Japan totaled only 402 hundredweight, with a total value of $10,300.

CONDENSED MILK

The tariff on dry condensed milk has been increased by Japan from 13.40 yen per 100 kin to 25 yen per 100 kin. This means a tariff of approximately $4.90 per 132 pounds has been increased to approximately $9.25. Canada's powdered milk exports to Japan during the calendar year 1931 were valued at $60,705.

SURTAX PLAN

An increase of 35 per cent on ad valorem duties, in the form of a surtax, is also announced in order to regulate results in the fall of the Japanese exchange. This will not affect Canada for five months in respect to commodities which receive the benefits of the French convention rate.

He was in Victoria three years ago visiting his relatives. The Whiteley family is well known in Newfoundland and all the sons were seafarers, Capt. Jack and Capt. "Brown" having come to Victoria many years ago, in the sealing days.

DOLLAR LOSES ON EXCHANGE

New York, June 14.—The Canadian dollar closed 1-16 cent lower on the local foreign exchange market to-day at 86 7-16 cents, after holding firm earlier. The pound sterling ended the day 1½ cents lower at $3.66¼ for cables.

NEW ANGLE IN SHARPE CASE

STATEMENT ON QUESTIONING

Persons close to the family described the death of Miss Sharpe as "most unfortunate," but supported the police statments that she never had been questioned without a member of the household being present.

Mrs. Morrow steadfastly has maintained faith in the integrity of the servant woman.

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbregh, who have been staying at the Morrow estate, probably soon will visit the Morrow summer home at North Haven, Maine. Mrs. Lindbergh, an expectant mother, appears, a friend said, in surprisingly good spirits and has been passing much of her spare time in a study of music.

Police have questioned twenty-nine persons on the Morrow estate, but only a small part of these are members of the house staff.

Brief Water Famine In Vancouver Areas

Commissioner E. A. Cleveland of the water district, although agreeing the reservoir officials had limited the flow for some time, declared he had had no report of any stoppage occurring.

Becaus of the limiting of the flow from Little Mountain, said the city engineer, the draw-off on the reservoir in the Shaughnessy Golf Course—which supplies Marpole and has been diverted in part to Kerrisdale—was depleted entirely by about 6 p.m. For the last few days, during the present hot weather, this water had been lasting until about 9 o'clock.

NO DRINKING WATER

Residents in higher parts of Kerrisdale, West Point Grey and the university area were without water, lacking even enough for drinking purposes for periods varying according to locality from two to five hours yesterday afternoon and evening.

They lifted their eyes to the high snow of North Shore hills, where reservoirs are brimming with the mountain flow-off, but they turned their taps in vain. Water pressure began to fail in the afternoon, and taps gave their final dismal gurgles toward evening. In some houses water trickled from basement and garden taps for a while longer, then they, too, dried up.

The shortage did not affect all areas to the same degree. In some places one side of the street was utterly dry, while on the other side residents managed to induce a sickly trickle through their garden hose.

DEPORTATION INQUIRY

Toronto, June 14.—(Canadian Press)—The federal Department of Justice was urged to make "a searching inquiry into all the relevant facts with a view to removing any ground for suspicion of inequity or harshness" in the deportation laws and their administration, in the report of the committee on evangelism and social service adopted yesterday by the Toronto conference of the United Church.

VANCOUVER MAN DIES ABROAD

Vancouver, June 14—W. E. Hodges, aged fifty-nine, well known in the commercial life of Vancouver and a member of the firm of Riddell, Stead, Hodges and Winter, chartered accountants, died at the home of his sister in Somersetshire, England, yesterday.

Mr. Hodges came to British Columbia from England in 1897. The Yukon first attracted him, but he spent only a short time there. Later he lived in Greenwood and Cranbrook. In 1906 he married in the latter city and soon afterward came to the Coast. Before he joined the accounting firm with which he was associated till his death he was connected with J. F. Helliwell, chartered accountant.

He was an active cricketer, a charter member of the Shaughnessy Golf Club and a member of the Jericho Country Club and the Vancouver Club.

An event every summer in connection with his cricketing activities was a birthday reception on the Saturday closest to July 10, at which he was joint host with Col. J. P. Fell, who celebrated his birthday on the same day. It was also Mr. Hodge's wedding anniversary.

MURDOCH FACES VERNON JURY

the identity of Murdoch as the man who shot Miss Nolan, at that time a police operative at Kelowna. Defence counsel questioned none of the witnesses, but indicated to the court he would seek to establish the accused was not responsible for his actions at the time of the shooting.

TOLD LIFE STORY

Outlining the position of the defence, Mr. Gonzales told the jury Murdoch was an illegitimate child shunned by his school fellows in boyhood and hunted by the obsession that his birth was a bar to success and that as a result people turned against him when they discovered his secret. He traced his early life, his war experience and his subsequent efforts to secure and hold positions in Canada and New Zealand.

MET AT MONS

When Mrs. Murdoch took the stand and calmly recited the story of her meeting with the accused, then a soldier in the British army at Mons at the time of the armistice, several women in the galleries wept and the court listened to every word of her simple story.

Even at that time, Mrs. Murdoch testified, her husband was in a highly nervous state, and referred to the obsession that everyone was against him. She told of their marriage in England and Murdoch's unsuccessful attempts to secure work in Scotland, near his birth place. Subsequently, she said, he was placed on the Metropolitan Police force of London, but remained only a short time there, later coming to Canada, where he joined the Mounted Police.

NUMEROUS MOVES

From that time witness testified their life was a succession of moves from one place to another, even to New Zealand, but in each case Murdoch's appointments were short lived and he always gave as the reason for his dismissal that his secret had been learned and officials had turned against him. This obsession had become so strong, Mrs. Murdoch testified, that her husband even believed the Prime Minister of Canada shared the general antipathy which he believed all men held for him.

A series of letters typewritten and addressed to Jean Nolan were identified by Mrs. Murdoch as having been signed by her husband.

Rev. A. K. McMinn, pastor at Kelowna, testified as to the nervous state of Murdoch in the weeks preceding the fatal shooting of Miss Nolan. This nervous condition, Mr. McMinn said, had become heightened since an affair which had resulted in trouble between Murdoch and a former constable. Subsequent to that affairs Mr. McMinn declared Murdoch's conversation had become incoherent, and was at times impossible to follow.

Many conversations were interrupted, Mr. McMinn said, by Murdoch's cry of, "Oh, they crucified me—they crucified me."

George Stubbs of Kelowna also testified to Murdoch's incoherence in speech subsequent to the trouble with McDonald.

Lieut.-Col. L. A. de V. Carey of Kelown described a visit to Murdoch to his place for the purpose of discussing manuscript for a book. Murdoch, he said, made no reference to the book, but frequently quoted from the Bible and spoke of other matters not pertaining to the conversation.

Murdoch, according to witnesses, had referred to Miss Nolan as his inspiration and declared that with her assistance he was about to produce a literary masterpiece.

CHIN IN HAND

During the whole proceedings Murdoch evidence no interest whatever, but sat with eyes closed and his chin cupped in his hand. Even when Chief Justice Morrison sharply reprimanded the spectators for levity, and threatened to clear the court when "foolish women giggled while a man was being tried for his life," the accused remained unmoved and appeared not to follow the trial or to be conscious of what transpired around him.

NEW FARM RELIEF DEMANDS IN U.S.

Associated Press

Chicago, June 14.—The voice of the farmer, again asking for relief, strove to-day to be heard above the wet-dry din accompanying the opening of the Republican National Convention here.

Among Nebraskans, Iowans and Dakotans, there were strong demands that the prohibition issue should not be permitted to force economic problems and farm problems into the background.

Governor Dan W. Turner, of Iowa, voiced the general feeling of the rural delegates when he said:

"I am amazed at the emphasis being placed on the prohibition question. The primary object before this convention should be tax relief, agriculture and business. The convention should declare itself for principles which will restore agriculture and agricultural prices to the pre-depression level."

As other states wheeled into action, prospects were less promising that such divergent plans as the equalization fee, the export debenture plan and the allotment plan would be able to come together on a general programme.

JUDGMENT AWAITED

London, June 14 (Canadian Press).—The Judical Committee of the Privy Council here to-day reserved judgment on the appeal of Lady Mortimer Davis and Mortimer Davis, which seeks to remove Lord Shaughnessy and Alexander Reaper as trustees and executors under the will of the late Sir Mortimer Davis, Canadian tobacco magnate.

WANT RELIEF PLAN EXPLAINED

Canadian Press

Edmonds, B.C., June 14. — "I have read this letter very carefully and must confess I do not know what it means," Reeve W. A. Pritchard told the Burnaby council yesterday evening when a communication was read from the Provincial Public Works Department.

The letter dealt with conditions under which unemployment relief work which was not completed prior to May 1 may now be continued and finished.

It was referred to Deputy Engineer George Southwell and the Board of Works for consideration.

MAN JAILED FOR HITTING EX-KING

Associated Press

Marseilles, France, June 14.—Gonzalez Macanares, who struck former King Alfonso of Spain several times in the face on Alfonso's arrival here from Malta on May 13, yesterday was sentenced to six months' imprisonment.

The attack was made when the former king had arrived to meet his son, Don Juan, a cadet in the British navy. His nose was bruised and one cheek was cut.

The assailant, who described himself as a Spanish Republican, said he had hit the deposed ruler "to punish him for the wrong he did my country."

THIRD PARTY TALK IN U.S.

At Chicago Republicans Hear Al Smith Mentioned As Straight Wet Candidate

Associated Press

Chicago, June 14.—The threat that Alfred E. Smith might be called on to lead a third party if neither the Republicans nor Democrats should adopt a plan calling for prohibition repeal rang out yesterday evening amid pre-convention clamor over the dry law.

It was raised by Raymond Pitcairn, Philadelphia anti-prohibitionist, in an address at a wet rally attended by several thousand persons in the Coliseum.

At about the same time the strong Pennsylvania delegation to the Republican National Convention was deferring a decision on the prohibition plank.

Its action was regarded as favorable to the administration's move to halt the drive toward repeal at the midway point of resubmission of prohibition to the people.

The opening session of the Republican convention was held this forenoon.

"It is no secret the American people are fed up with both major party records, their taxes and their failure to vote in favor of repeal," Pitcairn told the wet mass meeting yesterday evening.

"If the Republican candidate should fail to take command, he cannot be elected. What then should the people do?

"And suppose the Democrats should nominate Franklin D. Roosevelt, a demagogue and in time a straddler, even on this issue?

"If both parties should fail the people in this emergency we could and should endorse a strong leader of the people's cause. I have in mind the name of such a leader, and that man is Alfred E. Smith."

BUTLER'S OPINION

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, who will present a repeal plank to the Republican convention, told the meeting two-thirds of the Republican delegates would be in favor of the proposal "if left to themselves."

Republican leaders drafting the troublesome prohibition plank returned late yesterday evening from a secret conference prepared to put the issue up to President Hoover. They indicated they were hopeful of an early solution.

The proposed administration plank stated the right of the people to express themselves on such an important public policy, and recommended that a chance be given this country to vote on a substitute, which would outlaw the saloon and guarantee to protect states wanting to be dry, from liquor importations, but the exact nature of the legislation would be left to Congress.

Jewish Centennial Celebrations Held

Canadian Press

Toronto, June 14.—Jews of Canada this month are celebrating the one hundredth anniversary of their emancipation. In June, 1832, an act of parliament declaring persons "professing the Jewish religion entitled to the rights and privileges of the other subjects of His Majesty" was passed.

Passed by the Assembly of Lower Canada, now Quebec province, the act was of Canadian Jewry's magna charta. Jewish journals are publishing special articles recalling the auspicious occasion and describing the expansion of Jewish cultural and economic life since then.

Congratulations to Canadian Jews on the centenary of their freedom have been received by Zionist leaders and representative Jewish organizations. Premier Bennett, premiers of the provinces and prominent Christian clergymen have joined in expressing their good wishes.

STORMS IN SPAIN CAUSE LOSSES

Madrid, June 14.—Much damage to crops and livestock in several parts of Spain has been caused by rain, hail and wind storms during the last two days.

The region around Valencia was particularly hard hit and the Puerga River threatened to overflow, adding floods to the other causes of loss and suffering. Two-thirds of the crops were wiped out in many sections around Saragossa.

TELLS PRAIRIES HOW TO SAVE

Saskatchewan Judge Says Merging Into One Province Has Great Possibilities

Moose Jaw, Sask., June 14. — Reorganization of the law courts in a merged prairie province would save anywhere from $250,000 to $1,000,000 a year to the taxpayer, Mr. Justice George Taylor of the King's Bench of Saskatchewan, told a Moose Jaw service club yesterday. He estimated a total cut in expenditure of between $10,000,000 and $25,000,000 annually could be generally effected by such a merger of the provinces.

Scoring the waste he said existed under the present separate administration of the three provinces, the judge said the country had more judges than it required, more judicial districts than it needed, and in the three prairie provinces chambers and courtrooms were idle 75 per cent of the time.

"I am persuaded a merging of the prairie provinces into one province with a full grant of provincial rights over legislation and government would be in the best interests of the prairie people," he said.

APPOINTMENTS ARE MADE SLOWLY

Associated Press

Seattle, June 14.—Mayor John Dore was given a quorum in his board of public works to initiate his economy programme yesterday when the council approved William A. Gaines, former county commissioner, for building superintendent. The only dissenting vote was that of Councilman Otto A. Case, defeated mayoralty candidate this year.

A week after receiving appointments from Mayor Dore, the council has only approved Gaines and Herman W. Ross, former aide of Governor Ernest Lister and named by Dore for streets superintendent. With J. D. Ross, light superintendent for twenty years, a holdover, three of the five members of the board are now seated.

The council was scheduled to inquire into the qualifications of Alvin M. Lewis, water superintendent nominee, to-day. The council rejected Don Evans, county commissioner, for city engineer and Mayor Dore said he would not make another nomination until it had voted on Lewis.

HORSE TEAMS AT BRIDGE OPENING

Canadian Press

Vancouver, June 14.—Teams of British Columbia heavy draught horses will take part in the parade at the opening of the Burrard Bridge here, July 1, it was decided at a meeting of the B.C. Horse Breeders' Association. The city council had invited the association to be represented in the opening ceremonies.

"We hope to have a six-horse team at the head of the parade," said W. H. Hicks, Agassiz, secretary of the breeders' association. "If we do, the world will see high-class British Columbia products which consume British Columbia hay and oats, wear British Columbia leather, travel on British Columbia shoes and make prosperity wherever they are intelligently used."

BENNETT'S ROOMS CAMPAIGN TOPIC

V. Dupuis, M.P., Deals With Chateau Laurier Suite at By-election Meeting

Canadian Press

Montreal, June 14.—Premier Bennett's suite of rooms in the Chateau Laurier Hotel in Ottawa provided the subject yesterday evening when Vincent Dupuis, member of parliament for Napierville-Laprairie, spoke in Maisonneuve Ward in support of Joseph Jean, Liberal candidate in the coming by-election.

"Charge me more, charge me as if I were the poor member for Napierville-Laprairie, who has to pay $8 a day for a wee wee room for one night," was what Mr. Bennett should have said to the management of the hotel when he was offered a "seventeen-room suite for $400 a month," Mr. Dupuis said.

"The hotel belongs to the Canadian National Railways, the deficits of which Mr. Bennett has to provide in his capacity as Prime Minister. He had alterations made so the suite would meet his tastes, and that cost more than $100,000. He likes to put his feet out of the window, so the window sills had to be lowered."

The polling in Maisonneuve is set for June 27. The vacancy was caused by the death of C. Robitaille, Liberal.

NEW TAXES FOR GERMANS TO PAY

Decree Signed By President von Hindenburg Enforces Levies

Associated Press

Berlin, June 14. — President von Hindenburg to-day signed an emergency decree putting into effect a series of new financial measures, but he withheld until to-morrow another decree already prepared lifting the ban the Bruening government imposed on the National Socialist (Hitler) storm troops.

The fiscal measures imposed a graduated tax, starting at 1½ per cent on all persons who hold jobs. They reduce the dole for the unemployed and the wounded war veterans, and they eliminate all exemptions from the turnover tax. There is also a new salt tax of six pfennigs a pound. This tax is expected to yield 60,000,000 marks, and that on the employed 400,000,000 marks, the latter to be applied to the unemployment dole.

EXECUTOR, BUT NO WILL FOUND

Associated Press

San Francisco, June 14.—San Francisco's suspended public defender, Frank J. Egan, signed himself as executor of the estate of Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes, for whose death he has been indicted on a charge of murder, it was revealed yesterday at a hearing on official misconduct charges before the board of supervisors.

Acting Public Defender Gerald J. Kenney took the witness stand and identified Egan's signature as "executor" on an order for transfer of the body from the morgue to an undertaking establishment. Egan has persistently refused to produce Mrs. Hughes's will, if there be one.

The hearing was adjourned till to-night.

EXPLOSION EXPLAINED

Columbus, O., June 14.—The explosion in the new Ohio state office building here last April 14, in which ten men were killed and sixty injured resulted from gas leaking from a main of the Columbus Gas and Fuel Company, Attorney-General Gilbert Bettman reported to-day to the state office building commission.

Riot In Town In New South Wales

Canadian Press

Newcastle, N.S.W., June 14.—A serious riot in which dozens of police and rioters were injured, broke out to-day in Newcastle, when hundreds of defiant townspeople gathered to prevent the eviction of a tenant who had fallen behind in his rent.

Before the affray was over sixty policemen had been rushed to the scene and many arrests had been made. The fighting lasted fifteen minutes.

Newcastle is a town and port on the Hunter River, seventy-three miles north of Sydney, with a population of 12,000.

MUSEUM WILL SHOW WONDERS

Associated Press

Chicago, June 14. — Earthquakes a la carte, with volcanoes on the side, will be a simple order for the Rosenwald Museum of Science and Industry when it is opened to the public next May.

And the cutting of a new river bed, a geological feat sometimes requiring millions of years, will be accomplished in ten minutes.

Phenomena such as these will be presented through the medium of diagrams, replicas, stream tables and other devices in the geology section of the museum.

Honeymooners lacking transportation to Niagara Falls may see a working model of the cascade which, except for size, will rival the original.

The small boy who wants to dig a hole through the earth to China may view what he is likely to encounter from a rotating section globe, showing the interior of the earth and reconstructed from seismic data.

Other exhibits will make clear the evolution of continents and their physical features and the determination and recording of geological time.

The interior of a Kimberley diamond mine, or of a metal or coal mine, can be visited. Plaster casts of the actual mine walls, together with timbering and rails, will give an aspect of reality. Visitors will be hoisted to the surface through the shafts in which the illusion of great depth will be created by means of revolving walls.

MOUNTAIN PARTY TO TAKE PHOTOS

Associated Press

Cambridge, Mass., June 14.—A complete photographic record of the ascent of Mount Fairweather, the highest coastal mountain in the world and largest peak on the Fairweather Peninsula of Southern Alaska, is the aim of Bradford Washburn, Harvard undergraduate, who has announced his plans to head an expedition made up of five other Harvard men who will leave here the middle of this month.

Mr. Washburn is young in years but a veteran in mountain climbing experience in the Alps. There last year, with Walter C. Everett, another Harvard student, of Arlington, he made the first complete motion picture of the ascent of Mont Blanc, Europe's highest peak.

Mr. Everett will be a member of the Fairweather expedition, and the others are Harold Pangarten of Vienna, Australia, who also has an outstanding climbing record in the Alps in the last few years; Richard V. Riley of Plainfield, N.J.; Robert S. Monahan of Pawtucket, R.I., and Robert H. Bates of Philadelphia.

The expedition will mark Mr. Washburn's second attempt to scale the Alaskan peak, his first having failed two years ago due to lack of food and time.

U.S. DEMOCRATIC ELECTION TICKET

Associated Press

Chicago, June 14.—Two proposed tickets emerged to-day from the gossip about the Democratic presidential race. They were "Roosevelt and Traylor" and "Traylor and Roosevelt."

Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker and one of the "dark horse" candidates for President, was visited yesterday by James A. Farley, co-ordinator of the Roosevelt forces. Mayor Anton Cermak of Chicago, Illinois Democratic leader, and ally of Traylor, also conferred with Farley.

The rumor was thus revived that Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt would welcome the Chicago banker on the ticket with him if he should succeed in winning the Democratic presidential nomination.

Meanwhile, from the campaign headquarters set up by Traylor's friends came the statement that "Democratic success might well be assured if the party could promise a Traylor-Roosevelt administration."

FIRE DESTROYS GRAIN ELEVATOR

Swift Current, Sask., June 14—Losses in a fire that destroyed the Province elevator, 15,000 bushels of wheat, a coal shed, offices, thirty tons of coal and a freight car loaded with wheat at Leinan yesterday amount to $30,000.

The fire started, it is believed, from spontaneous combustion.

Six freight cars loaded with wheat were saved from the flames, being dragged away by a motor truck.

Leinan is eighteen miles north of Swift Current.

National Economic Plan Is Urged

Canadian Press

Toronto, June 14.—The Toronto conference of the United Church of Canada, in session here yesterday, reiterated its demand for economic regulation by means of a national economic council, together with the "formulation by financiers of a code of conduct which will exclude the exploitation of the public domain for private and privileged gain."

The conference "affirms the obligation of the Christian church to procraote those fundamental changes which are imperatively required, both in the social structure and in personal motive."

ABYSSINIANS RECAPTURE LIDU

Associated Press

Addis Ababa, Abyssinia, June 14—Lidj Eassu, former Emperor of Abyssinia, who escaped last week from the captivity in which Emperor Haile Selassie had kept him for fifteen years, was in custody again to-day.

An official statement issued yesterday by the Abyssinian Foreign Office said Lidj had fled into the hills of the Goljam region, pursued by Selassie's troops. The army surrounded him and he was captured in a gorge north of the Blue Nile. Yesterday, the statement said, he was brought back and handed over to the commanding officer of the Emperor's troops.

Gaston B. Means Is Found Guilty

Associated Press

Washington, June 14—Gaston B. Means yesterday evening was found guilty in the District of Columbia Supreme Court of larceny of $104,000 from Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean in a fantastic plan to recover the abducted Lindbergh baby.

Two hours after it had been given the case, the jury of eleven men and one woman returned verdicts of guilty on two counts of larceny of the $100,000 ransom money and of $4,000 expense money.

Verdicts of not guilty on two counts of embezzlement of the same sums were returned.

YOUTH FACES CHARGE

The boy was taken into custody as he returned to his home for the first time since the incident Saturday.

Miss Moore, suffering from severe burns, was stated to be in a serious condition.

UNIVERSITY ECONOMIZES

Montreal, June 14.—Abandonment by the University of Montreal of three courses and the practice of sponsoring free public lectures was announced yesterday evening by Canon Emile Chartier, dean of the institution. The move was in accord with the university's plans of stringent economy, Canon Charter said.

AT CHICAGO

UNITED STATES REPUBLICAN DELEgates are in session at Chicago to choose a candidate for the position of thirty-second President. Their business will be largely a matter of routine as far as this particular selection is concerned. Such prestige as office may carry with it is regarded as sufficient guarantee that the occupant of the White House will be endorsed by his party supporters and be given the opportunity of asking the people for another term. Mr. Hoover, therefore, may be regarded as the Republican standard-bearer to do battle against a Democratic candidate yet to be named.

* * *

These are ominous times for governments. Mr. Hoover was elected in 1928 by an overwhelming majority. Out of the 531 votes of the Electoral College, he obtained 444 against eighty-seven for Mr. Alfred Smith, former governor of New York State. It is interesting to recall, however, that in a total popular vote of approximately 31,000,000, Mr. Hoover's majority only just exceeded 5,000,000. But this is not by any means an unusual circumstance. When Harrison and Cleveland fought it out in 1889, Harrison obtained the necessary majority of the Electoral College votes, although the popular ballot showed him to be 300,000 behind.

* * *

Times in 1928 were vastly different from times to-day. The neighboring republic was enjoying almost unprecedented prosperity—as, indeed, was Canada—and the people went to the polls with "elect-Hoover-and-keep-prosperity-with-us" ringing in their ears. It was an excellent political battle slogan. Mr. Hoover assured industry that if he were elected he would maintain tariff protection—it had been shot up by the Fordney-McCumber bill a few years previously—and Mr. Smith declared he would leave the tariff to a commission of experts. Mr. Hoover had not been in office long before the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill went into effect and added still more bricks to his country's tariff wall. Only in recent days, moreover, both Houses of Congress have endorsed a still further addition to the tariff structure of the United States which very seriously affects Canada. The President, of course, could have vetoed that measure if he had so desired; but he signed it, and it is now the law of the land. His supporters, incidentally, are reminding the Democrats that while they had bitterly criticized the Hawley-Smoot act, they "generously supported duties on copper, coal, oil, and lumber."

* * *

Mr. Hoover is supposed to be noted for his international outlook. He has the reputation of being a good friend of Canada in particular and of the British Empire in general; but when the citizens of the neighboring republic go to the polls to elect a new President or a new Congress they attend very strictly to their own knitting—no outside interests are permitted to obscure their vision. The President who will ask for another term of office will therefore be called strictly to account for what has transpired in his country since he was first elected in 1928. The prosperity he was elected to make permanent as if an entirly new economic era had dawned, skidded badly in the fall of 1929 and has been touching perilously low levels ever since. From a state of extraordinary prosperity, fictitious though much of it may have been, to a sinister condition marked by an idle population of approximately 10,000,000, is a far cry. Nevertheless, this is the situation with which Mr. Hoover must contend as he conducts his election campaign. It represents a heavy handicap—and the days of miracles are no more.

* * *

This presidential election, however, is likely to be marked by a bitter controversy over the Eighteenth Amendment. Although only a year or so ago the drift of public opinion seemed to be generally favorable to the continuance of prohibition, a decided change appears to have set in in recent months. The Literary Digest's straw vote, while hardly to be regarded as an undisputed barometer of current thought, revealed this change in an arresting way. It is predicted that this question will appear in some form in the platforms of both parties.

* * *

Who the Democratic nominee will be is still on the lap of the gods. At this stage the indications are that the choice will be Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt; but mention of dark horses will not down. The Democratic party is suffering from the effects of strife among its own rank and file. In the present pre-convention campaign Mr. Smith is really the only other candidate prospect who has presented his compatriots with definite proposals for curing the country's ills. From Chicago to-day, moreover, comes the suggestion that if neither of the major parties sums up enough courage to demand repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, Mr. Smith may lead a third with this as his chief plank. How far he would go under a "wet" banner, having regard to his religious beliefs, remains a matter for conjecture.

* * *

Canada is especially interested in Mr. Roosevelt's suggestion that if he were elected, he would try to arrange for a round-table tariff conference between representatives of a government of which he would be the head and representatives of this Dominion. From a purely economic point of view, therefore, and in the interests of friendly relationship, for that matter, a Democratic government in the United States would be more likely to help this continent back to better times than a Republican government. Mr. Hoover's attitude is reflected in the Hawley-Smoot bill, and the recent measure which is bound to cost this country a good deal in sales of lumber and copper. This has led Canada to adopt retaliatory tariffs; and the result has been that a trade between the two countries of $1,380,000,000 has dwindled to less than $600,000,000.

* * *

In the face of these facts it is scarcely likely the people of the United States will vote in a President pledged to continue the commerce-strangling programme.

NEWFOUNDLAND AND OTHERS

WHILE RIOTING AGAINST A GOVernment does not always mean that the government is politically doomed, since much depends upon the cause and nature of the demonstration, the recent turbulence directed against Sir Richard Squires and his administration led outsiders to expect a turnover in the elections which were held in the old colony last Saturday. The government's policy was under severe indictment, while the Premier was charged with grave financial maladministration.

The victorious opposition is known as the United Newfoundland Party, and is under the leadership of Hon. F. C. Alderdice, who anticipates a substantial majority in the next House. Sir Richard Squires was defeated, and only one of his ministers appears to have been returned.

A sensational and somewhat humorous incident of the demonstration against Sir Richard Squires was the action of the Governor-General, Sir John Middleton, in sending for a British cruiser, which dashed to St. John so rapidly that a bluejacket was washed overboard. Whether this incredibly stupid proceeding was for the purpose of overawing the agitators or to provide for the unceremonious departure of the Governor-General and his Prime Minister if the situation became too hot, has not been made clear, at this range; but it was significant that following some drastic critical comments in the British press the cruiser quietly withdrew from the scene.

If anything were needed to seal with grim certainty the doom of the government it was this extraordinary act of the Governor-General, for which no doubt his government was properly held responsible by all self-respecting Newfoundlanders, who must have resented the unenviable advertisement the incident gave to them in the eyes of the outside world.

Newfoundland is not alone among the British dominions and colonies in the turbulence of its politics. The recent demonstration in New Zealand, generally noted for the orderliness of its political conditions, received sharp significance from the recent announcement that owing to critical domestic affairs it will not be possible for the Prime Minister to attend the Imperial Economic Conference.

Australia has just escaped a grave domestic complexity as an outcome of the election in New South Wales, while in India, Moslems and Hindus continue to crack one another's heads, the gaols are full of Gandhi's followers, and a strict censorship of news emanating from the great Oriental Empire is being enforced. Canada, in fact, is one of the most orderly sections of the English-speaking world, notwithstanding the cosmopolitan character of her population, the fanatical element among the Doukhobors providing the only sensational highlights on our domestic stage.

WHEN THE AMITIES REIGNED

SOME FORTY YEARS AGO ONE OF THE outstanding features of this city's celebration of Queen Victoria's birthday was a baseball game at Beacon Hill between the local Amity team and a nine from one of the cities on the Sound. Either Port Townsend, Seattle or Tacoma—and sometimes Portland—would send its crack aggregation here supported by a large delegation of its citizens, and the Hill would be thronged with spectators who would gather there with their lunch-baskets, not merely to see the game, but to spend the day. The weather in those days was much more dependable than it is now. Indeed, nobody expected anything but warm sunshine, and summer garb was the order of the occasion.

The Victoria Amity Club was invariably victorious, and it established a reputation for invincibility in the amateur field which extended over the Pacific Northwest. At the zenith of its fame it included Thos. H. Baker, George Borthwick, the three Gowen brothers, John Hannan, Thos. J. Burnes, Wm. Duck, S. D. Schultz, Fred. Jackson, most of whom have passed away. The captain was C. N. Gowen, whose death occurred here on Saturday, and who for many years was widely known for his enthusiastic interest in all branches of sport. It is noteworthy that although he was the oldest member of the original Amity Club he outlived most of his fellow-members of that time.

Mr. Gowen was the eldest of a well-known pioneer family, and came to Victoria with his parents nearly seventy-five years ago. For a long time after reaching manhood he was associated with the brewing business, first with his father and then on his own account. He was highly esteemed throughout the community, and old-timers will receive the news of his passing with keen regret and a melancholy recollection of the days when he often led his victorious nine from the playing-field amid the plaudits of admiring spectators.

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

A NEW DANGER
The Vancouver Province

There are new horrors in the way of taxation lurking just around the corner. In the hope of evading the gasoline tax, and the cost of gasoline also, of course, an American inventor has developed a motor for automobiles that makes use of compressed air instead of gasoline, and a model of it has been on exhibition at the National Inventors' Congress at San Francisco.

The new motor is said to have the advantage of using no spark; it develops no fumes; it makes no noise; there is no fuel, and therefore no high cost of operation. Compressed air can be taken aboard at any service station and stored in a tank. The momentum of the car will operate a compressor and help keep the pressure up.

The inventor is very ingenious. But he appears to have gone about his inventing without taking into account the necessities of the multitude of state and provincial finance ministers and treasurers on this continent. He may put the gasoline companies out of business and send Mr. Rockefeller to the breadline, but there is little prospect that he will be able to escape our Mr. W. J. Jones and his hungry colleagues. The seven-cent tax on a gallon of gasoline will become merely a seven-cent tax on certain units of compressed air.

It is here that the new horror enters. No finance minister ever applies a tax without developing it. The tribe can add and multiply but have no idea of subtraction or division. They can broaden the bases of their taxes, but not narrow them. If they once get into the way of taxing compressed air, they will go the next step and tax uncompressed air. In the interests of humanity, the new motor should be suppressed without delay.

A THOUGHT

And I will take thee, and thou shalt reign according to all that thy shoul desireth, and shalt be king over Israel.—I Kings xi 37.

God's mill grinds slow, but sure.—George Herbert.

Loose Ends

On choosing your own revolution—on government ruin and parsnip wine and bridge—on the disastrous combination thereof—and on the state of business.

By H. B. W.

THE NATION, one of America's oldest and most valuable reviews, carries this large headline: "Choose Your Revolution" and adds: "Social justice must come. It may come through the slow and painful process of violent revolution, irresponsible dictatorship and barbaric repression of human freedom that will set back our civilization 300 years, or we can choose and force a deliberate and intelligent revolution based on the proposition that hunger and insecurity in a world overflowing with resources are the result only of stupidity and inefficiency." I quote these alarming words only to warn you not to be alarmed. "Choose your revolution," says The Nation in a large headline and as if the idea of a revolution were a shocking thing which no loyal citizen has ever thought of before. But don't let it shock you. Don't worry about the revolution, and as for choosing what kind of a revolution you prefer, that probably is a waste of time. Such matters seldom consult your convenience and our taste in revolutions probably hasn't developed sufficiently yet to be of any real value.

* * *

THE THING to do is not to get alarmed, not to be shocked, but to realize that you have no choice in the matter at all. We are already launched on the revolution. We are in the very middle of the revolution, unquestionably the greatest revolution in the history of our race. It has been going on for some time. It started in the last century, but was not generally noticeable until about 1914. Now it is in full swing and you may note new phases of it almost every day—England goes off gold and free trade; a large part of the continent of South America repudiates its debts; the United States after solemnly resolving to keep government out of business at all costs, loans a large part of the national treasury to business to keep it going, and still finds that, being the richest nation in the world, it has the most unemployment per capita; Japan, after a century of building western institutions goes back to a military government; Germany, having overthrown all its old rulers, welcomes them back in another uniform; a government in British Columbia admits that it is not about to sell the P.G.E. after all.

* * *

THESE ARE all mere sparks from the grindstone of a revolution which will be going on long after our noses have been well and truly ground and what is left of us laid away, the revolution necessary to adjust the uncivilized human animal to a high state of mechanical civilization. Once you make up your mind to that, once you realize that there is nothing static in the world and isn't going to be, once you face the fact that life is going to be uncertain and dangerous as long as you live, then you can live dangerously and comfortably and enjoy, free, the greatest show in history, the end of which no one knows, since there is no end. But if you stay at home and wait for things to settle down, if you are too fussy about choosing your revolution, you are going to spend a dull life. In a revolution the thing to be is a cheerful revolutionist.

* * *

MR. BEAK was over here just now, and I could see by the slow lateral motion of those teeth which cannot be called false since they deceive no one, that he was very low, that he probably had just come through one of those rustic disasters which so frequently shock this neighborhood (and help to fill up the great open spaces of this column). When I had heard Mr. Beak's tale, one of my strongest opinions was utterly confirmed—namely, that the game of bridge is debauching our civilization. "Well, it was like this 'ere," said Mr. Beak. "Two or three fellas and their wives come out the other night from town and one of 'em says, 'What abaht a game of bridge?' 'e says. 'Right,' I says. And another 'e says 'What abaht a little of yer parsnip wine, Beak?' 'e says. 'Right again' I says, and fetches it from the basement. And another fella 'e perduces a bottle of rum from the government store—mark that careful, from the government store. Some of 'em drunk the rum neat, but I don't care for strong licker, not me. So I de-lutes mine with some parsnip wine about 'alf and 'alf and a dash of loganberry wine to take the kick out of it. It tasted good, too, and I only 'ad two drinks, two drinks wot you'd call drinks, that is.

* * *

SO," SAID Mr. Beak, "when it come my turn to be dummy in this 'ere bridge game I thinks to meself 'I'll just 'ave a breaf of hair houtside.' But as soon as I got out on the verandy the hair 'it me hall of a 'eap. Dizzy? Say, I just rolled down the steps and after that I didn't want to do nothing. All I did was crawl over to the rose bed and lie down and I don't remember nothin' after that until I wakes up and it's daylight and three of the boys is a-carryin' me into the 'ouse. I'd been a-layin' out there for about six hours in the rose bed and right square on top of a rose bush, and when I tell ye that I never felt the prickles at all, y'can see what kind of rotten rum the government is sellin'. 'Well,' says one of the fellas, 'we just went on playin' 'cause we thought you wanted to be dummy for a while.' I tell ye, it was the longest and the dummiest dummy I've ever bin and wot's worse, the fella wot took my place got all the cards while I was a-lyin' out under the stars, and 'e won $3.55.

* * *

DUMMY? I'LL say I was dummy, and it's that government rum that's to blame. Say, I took and poured the mixture of parsnip wine and rum out the next day on my hasparagus bed and, so 'elp me, 'half of the hasparagus 'as went and died. That's government rum for ye. So I lost me wine, I lost $3.55, I lost me reputation and I lost me respect for the government and I felt so bad I went and pulled out all the new parsnips in the garden wot I was a-growin' fer wine next fall. Still, I can allus plant some more, but as for that, I've sworn off forever." "You mean," I said, "you've sworn off rum forever?" "Rum?" said Mr. Beak, incredulously, "no, sir!" I've sworn off bridge forever." And Mr. Beak walked off solemnly, as one who has put aside the world and all the fruits thereof.

* * *

I HAVE just room here to record another erudite and pregnant opinion from one of the pundits of our neighborhood. I refer to the little red-faced gentleman to whom I give a ride to town nearly every morning and whose views of life I like to think represent the composite attitude of the electorate. "I been reading a lot lately about this here depression," said the red-faced gentleman, "and most of it is plain foolishness. I read a lot about gold reserves and balances of trade and war debts and purchasing power and a lot of other stuff like that. But I was in business for a long time myself and I can make up my own mind all right. And d'you know what I think is making times bad? Well, I'll tell you. I been figuring it out and I figure that what makes times bad is that people haven't got the money to spend that they used to, and consequently they ain't spending it. That's what is making times bad."

THE VICTORIA DAILY TIMES
JUNE 14, 1907

(From the Times Files)

Weather forecast—Victoria and vicinity—Southerly and westerly winds, mostly cloudy and cool.

* * *

Seldom have the possibilities of a new trade route been spoken of so glowingly as the terms in which passengers who arrived at Victoria yesterday on the steamer Georgia discussed what is known as the Canadian Mexican Steamship Company's line.

* * *

Wagner's famous band is coming and a special excursion from Seattle has been arranged for on the opening day, was the announcement made by the committee meeting at the Victoria Driving Club held last evening at the Driard Hotel.

* * *

Returning from her first trip to Mexican waters, and her inaugural voyage on the Canadian Mexican Pacific Steamship line, the steamer Georgia, Captain Henderson, pulled into port last evening. Perhaps the most interesting feature in this, the homeward voyage of her first sailing, was that all the cargo which she carried, upwards of 500 tons, was consigned to Victoria.

The J.B.A.A. representatives for the annual regatta of the Northern Pacific Amateur Association for Oarsmen have at last been decided upon, and the crew is truly a formidable one. The local club are sending a junior single, junior double, junior four, senior double and senior four.

* * *

It was decided at the regular monthly meeting of the Victoria Board of Trade held yesterday afternoon, that a committee should wait upon the Provincial Government to ask for an early construction of the proposed road from Goldstream to Mill Bay along the Saanich Inlet.

LOANS MADE TO PACKING FIRMS

Holsum Products Limited of Victoria will be made a direct loan up to $5,000 and Eakins Products Limited of Vancouver a loan up to $10,000 by the Department of Industries, it was announced at the Parliament Buildings to-day.

This action will enable both concerns to process strawberries under the sulphur dioxide method for overseas shipment to an approximate value of $300,000.

Original plans called for a credit of $50,000 from the banks, guaranteed by the government, but a hitch occurred and the plan fell through.

As quick action was necessary owing to the imminence of the strawberry harvest, the government decided to grant the loan throught the Department of Industries and final details will be completed on Tuesday.

Close Battles In Softball League

LEAGUE STANDING

| | |
|---|---|
| Jokers | 22 |
| Todd's | 16 |
| Colwood | 11 |
| Ross Bay | 11 |
| Comeron's | 10 |
| Moose | 8 |

Three close games featured play yesterday evening in the Westholme Softball League.

Jokers, leaders of the league, scored a run in the ninth inning to defeat Colwood, 13 to 12, at Victoria West Park, the teams engaged in a ding-dong affair with first one team and then the other taking the lead.

At Hampton Road the Moose nosed out Cameron's, 7 to 6, in a ten-inning battle.

In the third fixture Todds won over Ross Bay, 8 to 4, at the Memorial Park.

VIGILANT TO GO TO ORIENT

The five-masted schooner Vigilant, winner in last year's epic sailing race from Honolulu to Cape Flattery with the four-masted Commodore, will pass by Victoria to-morrow afternoon on her way from Bellingham to the Orient with 2,250,000 feet of northwest lumber in her holds and on her decks.

Considering her heavy cargo, Capt. Charles Mellberg, who sailed her in the historic race, is whistling for a following wind and fairer weather than that encountered on the storm-swept 2,200-mile ocean course last December.

The Vigilant is now owned by C. K. Al, progressive Chinese business man of Honolulu. She was once sailed by Capt. Matt Peasley, the deep-sea skipper chronicled in Peter B. Kyne's popular sea stories, with Cappy Ricks as their white haired hero. Cappy Ricks was the late Capt. Robert Dollar.

The regular monthly meeting of the Mount View P.-T.A. will take place in Tolmie School, Thursday, when moving pictures of England and the continent will be shown.

WILL COMPLETE WORK STARTED

No New Relief Work Will Be Undertaken By Provincial Government This Year

Dominion Government Informs Tolmie Cabinet What Aid It Can Expect

Only those road programmes commenced last year under the unemployment relief scheme, will be continued this year, it was intimated at the Parliament Buildings to-day. Communications have been received from the Dominion Government telling of its participation in further relief.

Ottawa will contribute one-half of direct relief in provincial areas and one-third direct relief in municipalities and will pay half of the necessary minimum materials required for road building, but will not contribute to the cost of material required in municipal works.

For work done in return for relief, the federal government will contribute a similar percentage of all cash allowance paid to the men. Ottawa also will pay half of the cost of necessary transportation for men going to camps, this transportation being provided at special rates.

Rates of pay are to be computed at $17.50 a month for provincial foremen; $10 and $7.50 a month for patrol men, and $7.50 for laborers.

Should occasion arise for further measures the federal government will consult the province.

Hon. R. W. Bruhn, Minister of Public Works, to-day announced British Columbia has under consideration plans to repatriate transient Canadians who have made this province a winter mecca each year. Mr. Bruhn also announced that British Columbia's relief programme for this year would be ready shortly and final details settled of the federal-provincial unemployment relief policy.

ROTARIAN HEAD PLANTS TREE

Sydney Pascall, London, Centre of Brief Ceremony in Beacon Hill Park

A tree was a fine symbol of friendship because it was fresh and green, because it grew and because it was useful and enduring, said Sydney Pascall, London, president of Rotary International, during a brief ceremony this morning, in which he planted a sycamore or London plane tree in the Mayor's Grove in Beacon Hill Park.

The ceremony was witnessed by a small group consisting of Rotarians from the four corners of the earth, Mayor Leeming, city aldermen and others.

Alderman W. A. Worthington, chairman of the parks committee, introduced Mr. Pascall to Mayor Leeming. The Mayor then welcomed Mr. Pascall, pointing out to him that the trees he saw around him in the grove had been planted by other distinguished people—the Prince of Wales, the King of Siam, Lord Willingdon, Winston Churchill and others. The Mayor referred to the unity of spirit typified by the representative gathering of Rotary officials.

To plant the tree Mr. Pascall was given the same shovel used by King Prajadhipok of Siam. Other members of the party took a hand with the shovel. Mr. Pascall said that when he left England on his present trip he had determined to plant trees wherever he went. The result had been he had planted trees already in thirty places, and he hoped to finish with a Canadian maple in London.

GARAGE BY-LAW IS CRITICIZED

The suggested city by-law to prescribe conditions under which basement garages may be incorporated in residences has been strongly criticized by Pemberton and Son in a letter to the City Council, in which the measure was described as "about the most unnecessary thing that could be introduced at a time when everybody is studying economy."

The real estate firm pointed out that the measure would add to the cost of home building. The firm's experience in fire insurance had shown no loss arising from the practice of garaging cars in basements, and it was feared that the proposed restrictions, if adopted, would increase the number of unsightly separate garage sheds.

The protest was an outcome of a suggestion that basement garage space in new buildings be well away from the house furnace and be enclosed within fire resisting walls. The proposal had been referred by the council to its legislature committee for report.

PREMIER GOING TO CONFERENCE

Will Attend Gathering in Regina Next Month With B.C. Brief

Premier Tolmie announced to-day he would attend the Regina meeting called by Premier J. T. M. Anderson of Saskatchewan at which the four western provinces will be represented, and where questions to be submitted at the economic conference in Ottawa in July will be discussed.

While this province will submit its own brief to the federal government, it may join the three prairie provinces in submitting a uniform brief covering questions wherein the interests of all four provinces are identical, said the Premier.

AWAIT RULING ON ST. PATRICK

Magistrate George Jay to Give Judgment on Seizure Friday Morning

Judgment in the St. Patrick seizure case in which the Seattle trawler and her master, John Sumach are charged with fishing illegally in Canadian waters, will be brought down by Magistrate George Jay in the City Police Court on Friday morning.

After hearing the arguments of Stuart Henderson, counsel for the defense, and H. W. R. Moore, for the Crown, the magistrate yesterday afternoon adjourned the case for further consideration before announcing his decision.

Mr. Henderson based his arguments chiefly on the section of the Criminal Code, which states no person may be tried twice for the same offence. He contended the trial in the Exchequer Court of Canada, under Mr. Justice Martin, presiding Judge in Admiralty, definitely removed Capt. Sumach and his vessel from further trial on the same incident.

Mr. Moore contended evidence had shown Capt. Sumach had been fishing in Canadian waters when his boat was seized on August 30, 1931. He pursued his argument under the Fisheries Act.

After the dismissal of the case by the Exchequer Court on the grounds the Crown had failed to show clearly the vessel was in Canadian waters at the time of the seizure, the case was re-opened on May 13, and Capt. Sumach was summoned.

ELECTION BOOSTS N.S.W. SECURITIES

Canadian Press Cable

London, June 14.—The Central Electricity Board's loan of £10,000,000 in 4½ per cent stock issued at 96 was fully subscribed yesterday in less than an hour after the lists were opened.

British Government securities continued on the upgrade and a shortage was evident in floating supplies of this class of gilt-edges.

The defeat of the Socialist Party in the New South Wales elections had already been anticipated and Commonwealth securities generally have taken on a new lease of favor.

CIVIC PICNIC AT ELK LAKE

The thirteenth annual picnic and outing of the Civic Employees' Protective Association will be held at Elk Lake on Saturday, July 23, provided the City Council gives consent to the use of the grounds. In a letter to the City Council the association has asked that a general holiday with full pay be proclaimed, in continuance of the precedent of previous years. The customary donation towards the expenses of the picnic has also been requested.

The application for the holiday and grant is supported by the City Hall Officials' Association.

Broadcasts Here To-morrow Morning

HUGH BARRETT DOBBS

conductor of the Shell Happy Time and skipper of the Shell Ship of Joy, who will broadcast to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock, from Temple Hall, which, it is anticipated, will be crowded with Victorians who have enjoyed his programmes over the air. "Wee Willie" and other popular artists who assist will be on hand. For the first time CPCT will be linked in a Pacific Coast hook-up.

"Dobbsie," as he is known to millions, has had a varied career. Born in Kentucky, he laid the foundation for his excellent judgment of music listening to negro plantation melodies. He entered the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, but a keen appetite for fun led him into a hazing scrape that resulted in his dismissal. An understanding father sent the chagrined and despairing boy on a world cruise. He formulated new plans for a career and, upon his return, entered Baltimore's Johns Hopkins Medical School to fit himself to be a physical instructor.

After completing a four-year course he taught physical training in several sections of the United States. He became interested in outdoor playgrounds for children and soon "sold" the idea to officials of New York City, where he built many such playgrounds. He became a salesman in San Francisco and Seattle.

"Dobbsie" can be numbered among the first of radio's entertainers, having appeared before the "mike" eight years ago. His morning exercises grew immensely in popularity and it was not long before he joined the Shell organization and was introduced to the entire Pacific Coast. Since then, the mystic, make-believe Shell Ship of Joy has sailed forth every week-day morning.

New offices have been taken by the London Life Insurance Company in the Bank of Toronto Building, Douglas Street. J. Barraclough, C.L.U., and L. A. Rees, both of whom are well-known here, look after the interests of the hundreds of London Life policyholders in Victoria. desirable forms of investment combined with family protection and income disability benefit. E. M. Blackie, assistant superintendent of the London Life, spent several days in Victoria recently and expressed himself as being particularly well pleased to find the company represented by such energetic and capable men as Mr. Rees and Mr. Barraclough.

Mr. Barraclough, C.L.U., has been in the insurance business for the last six years, three years of which he was in charge of the group division in British Columbia for the London Life, during which time approximately 2,000,000 of group insurance was written. His frequent visits to Victoria during this time resulted in his making numerous friends among the business men of Victoria.

He secured his Chartered Life Underwriter degree in 1930, and transferred to the ordinary division of the London Life, January 1, 1932, coming to Victoria March 1. He makes a specialty of estate and will service, in conjunction with life insurance.

WAS WITH VICKERS

Mr. Rees joined the 50th Gordons here in August, 1914, and went to France with the 16th Battalion Canadian Scottish on December, 1915, obtained a commission in the R.N.A.S., and was on seaplane patrol over the North Sea and English Channel until demobolized in August, 1919. Upon his return to B. C. he joined the forestry department, later resigning to go into business for himself. In 1922 he joined the staff of Vickers Limited, the British and armament firm in London, England, and in 1926 was transferred to Montreal as the Canadian representative attached to Canadian Vickers Limited. He returned to B.C. in 1929 and joined the staff of Pemberton and Son in their bond department in Victoria, resigning in December, 1931, to join the staff of the London Life Insurance Company.

URBAN WOMEN ORGANIZING

Mrs. Tyrell Godman Tells of Townswomen's Guild Movement in England

Local Council Hears Former Victorian on Old Country Conditions

Some interesting sidelights on the Townswomen's Guild movement in England were given by Mrs. Tyrell Godman, a former Victorian, in a delightfully informal address before the Local Council of Women yesterday afternoon. Miss Crease presided.

Mrs. Godman explained that the Townswomen's Guild movement was an outgrowth of the National Union of Equal Citizenship, an organization which had performed yeoman service in helping the women of Great Britain to obtain the franchise, in assisting women into public life, and in securing legislation of benefit to women and children. With the attainment of many of these objects, the union had sought for a wider, non-political field of service, and to this end had commenced the Townswomen's Guilds, patterned on the women's institute movement but designed to assist urban women.

As president for two years of the guild at Hayward's Heath, Sussex, Mrs. Godman had been able to observe at first hand the value of the movement as a common meeting ground for women of all classes and views. It had been particularly valuable in the new housing districts, providing an interest for women transferred from the larger metropolitan areas to the smaller provincial towns and, consequently, somewhat lost at first, and enabling them to meet potential friends. She described the programmes of such guilds, which were educational, teaching handicrafts and similar subjects, and of a social nature, adaptable to local needs.

One difficulty had been to find leaders, but the summer schools, organized in conjunction with the guild movement, had been beneficial in this respect, she explained. Apropos of the women's institutes, Mrs. Godman observed that this had proved the largest forward movement among rural women in England. The guilds were acting as liaisons between the rural and urban women by encouraging the small markets at which rural produce was sold.

Mrs. Godman spoke of the growing addiction to canned goods in Great Britain, and presaged a growing demand for Canadian canned products in the Old Country. She also touched briefly upon the British Broadcasting Company's radio organization and its well-chosen programmes of diversified appeal.

In closing, the speaker referred briefly to conditions in England, which had shown a decided improvement since the National Government came into being. Much of this progress she attributed to the presence in the House of Commons of many younger men, keen and enthusiastic, and fired with the desire to do all in their power to help Great Britain retain her place in the forefront of nations.

Horoscope

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 15, 1932

It is a time for systematic work and cheerful expectation.

The early morning hours are auspicious for tasks requiring foresight and wise decisions. Executives should benefit.

This is read as an auspicious day for beginning long ocean voyages and seems to promise unexpected pleasures and excitement.

Those who seek employment are under a forbidding rule of the stars. It is better to postpone effort until a more fortunate sway prevails.

Under this planetary government there may be much personal comment in the press and holders of high place may be widely misrepresented.

While this configuration continues there is likely to be a tendency to discount the best intentions of men and women. Quarrels and breaks in long friendships are foreshadowed.

Accidents may multiply under this direction of the stars. Riders of horses should be careful. Polo games may be peculiarly hazardous.

Saturn is read as presaging for agriculturists dissatisfaction and discontent, even though the stars seem to forecast a good season.

This may be rather a disappointing day for dealers in real estate, but the seers foretell sudden advances in values in various parts of the country.

Women are well directed under this planetary government. All their especially feminine interests, including dress and beauty culture, are subject to the best influences.

Brides may rejoice to-day, for the date is auspicious, since it seems to promise constancy and contentment.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of many experiences that are trying but educational. Friends of opposite sex may be helpful.

Children born on this day probably will be forceful and exceedingly independent. Subjects of this sign usually succeed in their own way and resent dictation.

CRIME STORIES ARE BLAMED

Victoria C.G.I.T. Wants "Gangster" Magazines Banned From Sale in Canada

Local Council Told Such Stories Cause of Much Youthful Delinquency

Attributing much of the blame for the recent epidemic of hold-ups to the reading by the convicted delinquents of "gangster" stories, the Victoria Girls' Leaders' Council at its meeting on Saturday afternoon passed a resolution urging that: "We do all in our power to take immediate steps to bar the sale in Canada of magazines relating to detective and criminal episodes. This, of course, is not intended to include detective and mystery stories of higher standards, but only those magazines which describe in detail the carrying out of horrible crimes."

This resolution was brought before the Local Council of Women yesterday afternoon, and after very little discussion was referred to the cinema and literature committee, of which Mrs. Llewellyn Thomas, is convener, for consideration. This committee will forward the resolution to the National Council's committee for further action.

FILM SOCIETY'S AIMS

Mrs. Thomas, in her report for the cinema committee, told of the recent organization of the Film Society of Canada, of which Miss Crease is the president. This society aims to create a "snowball" of public opinion to demand wholesome films, to encourage the making of educational and scientific films and to establish a film library or exchange to facilitate the supply of such educational films for school use, and also to encourage the movement for world peace through the medium of the films. The first annual meeting of this society will be held this evening at the home of Mrs. Thomas.

In the report of the recent meeting of the Provincial Council, read by Mrs. W. J. H. Holmes, who was a delegate, the resolution, sponsored by the Alberta College of Physicians and Surgeons, urging the Dominion Government to take steps to prevent the exploitation of the radium fields at Bear Lake, in the interests of suffering humanity, was noted.

Reference was made to the recent discontinuance of the home economics course at the University of British Columbia, on the grounds of economy. Mrs. J. W. Gibson, convener of the local committee, recalled that a suggestion had been made that the interest accruing from the home economics endowment fund raised in Victoria and Vancouver be used to assist the students taking that course at the U.B.C. to attend other universities. The whole question will be considered by the various bodies interested at an early date, she stated.

MARRIED WOMEN'S NATIONALITY

Mrs. C. C. Spofford gave an interesting synopsis of the pamphlet forwarded from Geneva recently on the question of the national status of married women. The committee representing a number of international women's organizations, which considered the whole subject at special meetings in Geneva, objected to the Haig Convention findings that a woman's nationality should be the same as that of her husband. The committee's objections were based on the grounds that such a finding reaffirmed the old idea of the subjugation of women.

As there are numerous angles to the question, which is of considerable importance to women, the whole matter was laid over for discussion at a meeting of the council in the fall.

Mrs. Hewett White was appointed convener of the standing committee on child welfare.

Mrs. Holmes gave an interesting report of the women's workroom, showing that during May the workroom had netted $300 by the sale of its own work. Many sympathetic friends had donated material and money to assist the cause and the generous response to the recent tag day was much appreciated. Fifteen of the most needy cases were given eight hours work daily and others received part-time employment.

DEFINES CLUBS' RESPONSIBILITY

Business Women Hear Report of Brilliant Address By Miss Kneubuhl

Urges Women to Study Economics in Order to Help World Progress

Port Angeles Business and Professional Women's Club gave a most cordial welcome to the four members of the Victoria organization who attended their recent banquet in honor of Miss E. Kneubuhl, an officer of the International Federation, according to the report presented at the supper meeting of the local club yesterday evening at the Y.W.C.A.

Mrs. H. M. Hall who, with Mrs. M. G. Moore, Miss E. J. Herbert and Miss M. A. Wigley, gave an interesting and comprehensive resume of the proceedings at the Port Angeles gathering, recalling some of the highlights of Miss Kneubuhl's brilliant and forceful address on the subject of clubwomen and their responsibilities.

WOMEN EXECUTIVES

According to the speaker, a club would have done a great deal to be counted as merit, if it only trained and placed one woman in an executive position on an equal footing with men in striving towards the betterment of world affairs. Miss Knuebuhl deplored the custom by which presidents, after serving one or two years, retired into the ranks and suggested that the past presidents of a club form an advisory board, in order that the organization might not lose the benefit of their cumulative wisdom and experience.

There had been a national, a financial, a domestic, a political and religious revolution, and "now we are on the eve of a mental one, a great turning from the things of the flesh to the things of the spirit, and the hand on the revolving wheel will be the hand of woman. In order that the result may justify the process, it must be the spoken opinion of the properly-equipped, intelligent woman, which carries a great weight in international and community affairs."

Miss Kneubuhl urged the women to make a close study of economics, and in this connection Mrs. Hall suggested that the Victoria club next season take up this matter, through the medium of debates and similar programmes, in order to keep au fait with the topics of the day.

At the close, Mrs. Hall was warmly thanked for her excellent report.

BUSINESS MEETING

Miss Margaret Clay, the president, reminded the members of the imminent closing of the provincial voters' list, and urged them to make sure that their names were included. She announced that the next business meeting would be on Monday, June 27, at 8 o'clock, at the clubrooms, and as this will be the final meeting before the Dominion convention, all members were asked to keep the date fre.

Mrs. H. M. Hall extended an invitation to the members to meet for a picnic at her summer cottage at Gordon Head on August 17, at which place the club executive and convention committee will meet on Friday week, June 24.

Mrs. J. A. Bland, who as Miss Muriel Ringland, was responsible for the drawing up of the constitution of the original Kumtuks Club, was warmly welcomed on her return as an associate members. The musical part of yesterday evening's programme was contributed by Miss Doris Bagshaw who, ably accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Margaret Stewart, sang artistically Sanderson's "My Dear Soul" and "Thoughts Have Wings."

Child Has Had Practically All Bones Broken

Chicago, June 14.—Mary Mestdagh of Homer, Mich., has suffered so many bone fractures in the eleven years of her life she has almost lost count of them. And she has never been in a serious accident.

Only her right arm is broken now and that came from a slight strain that did not involve even a fall.

Dr. Frederick Harvey, who is studying her case at the North Chicago Hospital, said X-ray pictures revealed that virtually every long bone in her body has been broken once or more for a total of between thirty-five and forty fractures.

"Her case is unusual," he said. "Examination reveals the bone structure is so extraordinarily thin and brittle that any slight stress results in fracture. This obviously improper calcification appears to be occasioned through malnutrition of the membrane that nourished the bone."

MUST WOMEN SUFFER?

Is it their lot to suffer cramps and backaches every month? Certainly not. The tonic effect of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has ended all that for many thousands of women.

Mrs. Schnepper's case is typical. She was always sickly. Tired. Gloomy. "Now," she says, "everywhere I go people tell me how much better I look. I feel like dancing for joy all the time."

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

CHILDREN, TOO, HAVE WORRIES

We have a mistaken idea about the happiness of children. "All children are carefree and happy!" We dismiss them with this sweeping responsibility in the matter.

But it is all a mistake. They have troubles in as great a proportion to their age as our own. Even if they did not suffer vicariously through our troubles, which they do very often, their own problems worry and puzzle them.

One of the most unfortunate things in the life of a child is the feeling of guilt about something that is not serious at all. If the truth were told, an enormous percentage of children carry these secret burdens around with them day after day and they are very miserable indeed.

The child who has succumbed to temptation and copied a word in school may worry about it for weeks, and have an inner conviction that he is going straight to hell. He may have broken something he has not owned up to, or fibbed a bit, or failed to keep a promise, or gone some place he was not allowed. Any of a hundred small offences he may have committed either deliberately or impulsively, and it may color every thought and action for weeks thereafter.

FEAR BRINGS EVASIVENESS

Yes, he may be afraid of being found out, too. That only makes it worse. Fear of punishment seals his lips when he would confess and be done with it otherwise. First we tell a child in strong language that if he does so and so he is wicked; then when it has happened, for children are only human, we put him in the position of being a hypocrite because we almost dare him to tell us all about it.

The boy or girl who has a real human being for a parent who understands the weakness of the flesh, and the temptations and impulses of childhood, is very fortunate. If he can go right up to his mother or father, and own up, it is the best thing in the world than can happen. I cannot emphasize the importance of this too strongly—to cultivate the confessional with your own children, no matter how small, even if a few just punishments are omitted. Holding punishment over a child's head does this. It not only makes him secretive and cunning, which is a thousand times worse than any snap-shot misdemeanor, but it makes him feel guilty and unworthy and mean in his heart of hearts. We talk so much today about avoiding inferiority yet we have not even tried digging out one of the main roots of it—and this is the root.

DISARMAMENT POLITICAL JOB

Solution Rests Primarily With Great Powers, Says Sir George Perley

Ottawa, June 14.—Disarmament was a political problem and the responsibility for its solution rested primarily with the great powers, Sir George Perley declared here Saturday. Sir George who headed the Canadian delegation to the Geneva Disarmament Conference, was addressing a joint gathering of the Ottawa branch of the League of Nations Society, the National Council of Women, the Women's Canadian Club of Ottawa and the Canadian Club of Ottawa.

"Education and not emotionalism must be the broad, fundamental basis for the development of international good-will leading to permanent peace and to disarmament," declared Miss Winnifred Kydd, Montreal, president of the National Council of Women of Canada, and one of Canada's three delegates to the conference.

Miss Kydd dealt with the preliminary work of the conference subcommittee on moral disarmament of which she was a member, having as its object an intense study of how the public opinion of all countries of the world may be mobilized in the interests of peace. The moral disarmament committee, Miss Kydd indicated, intends to utilize the press, the radio and the moving picture in its peace propaganda work.

Referring to the presentation of the polyglot petitions for world disarmament at the conference, Miss Kydd stated the Canadian petition, bearing 500,000 names, was given a prominent place when the petitions from all countries were placed on display.

Glorifying Yourself

ON YOUR KNEES!

Many women, appearing in bathing suits, look as if their knees should be lifted.

You can do a lot towards improving unattractive knees.

Usually there are three things that make them that way. Excessive fat. Roughness; discoloration.

For the excessive fat, a general diet to reduce your whole body is, of course, the most efficacious. But you can massage your knees. Also, lie on your back, lift your feet into the air and rotate your legs, from the knees down. The fat usually is just inside the knee. This rotating gets at it and eventually does something about breaking it down.

For the roughness, you should use body oil. Use it every night, after bathing. After a week, look at your knees. Are not they softer, just a little bit softer? This oil is especially valuable if you are counting on doing much sunbathing. Your legs should have it too.

For discoloration, use salt and lemon juice to bleach your knees. It is the same treatment you give bad elbows. Apply at night and leave it on. The next morning use cold cream to soften. In a few days you will notice the difference.

Massage does a lot for knees, if you keep at it. Since they do not show so much, most women prefer to spend their time on their faces. But this year's bathing suits are pretty short! You might devote some time to your knees' beauty.

There are rubber stocking that reduce legs and knees. They are uncomfortable to wear. Exercise, massage and bleaching is a much more effcacious way to tackle the problem.

Your Baby and Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

WHAT IS RIGHT WAY TO CURB BITING AND SLAPPING?

Babes are just babies, and their tricks and actions are comically alike. Hold a baby of about one year in your arms and if there is a string of bright beads dangling around your neck, or a shining pair of glasses on your nose, or a bright pencil or pen in sight, the baby will grab for it. Parents are wont to nip this particular tendency in the bud by saying with increasing irritation. "Stop that. Don't do that."

BABY DOES LIKEWISE

But bright beads are always more effective stimuli than sharp words; so baby persists and hauls and pulls in his effort to get the bright object. Tired of inaction, the mother slaps. This leads inevitably to the next step in which baby slaps back. And, oh, how angry this affront to her dignity makes his mother! This time she gives a really hard smack, one calculated to show him once and for all that this is a game at which he has no chance of winning.

But baby has other tricks up his sleeve. He can bite. He has been sinking his small, sharp teeth into rubber rings and unresisting toys. He takes a nip of mother's hand or arm and is rewarded by a sharp cry of distress and another explosion of temper. It is hard to say whether the temper display of the bitable flesh or both foster this habit, but some babies develop biting as their most effective weapon. I heard of one baby who crawled about the floor unemotionally biting the ankles of unsuspecting visitors.

USUAL RESULTS

Mothers still cling to the idea that if they can punish their babies harder than babies can punish them, they'll squelch these tendencies. They always think that, until they have tried it to the point of fostering ugly dispositions and complete incorrigibility. At this point they always ask for help. They say pathetically, "I've slapped and spanked and even bitten him myself, but he still bites me, or his playmates, or even the dog and cat when the impulse seizes him."

Grabbing at bright objects, slapping at people, biting them, are all natural developments of childhood. Find the child who has never done any of them. Isn't it silly and illogical for parents to attempt to teach a child not to slap or bite by using the same weapons against him? Such actions are no more pleasing when done in revenge to the child than when done as experiments in conduct by the child himself.

ISOLATION

Put the child from you when he grabs at your possessions. Furnish him something just as attractive which he can enjoy in peace. If he slaps, put him down immediately and show by your disapproval—not by another slap—that this is behavior he can't continue. Do the same with the biting. Isolate him from comphnions, take away the dog or cat, remove yourself from him in spirit as well as body when he acts in this way.

Babies learn very quickly not to repeat the acts which deprive them of pleasant companionship. The baby knows he has been guilty of an act meriting adult disapproval and he is in no hurry to repeat it. This is just as effective punishment, if immediate, as repeating the child's act with the infuriated command not to do it again. What's more, it is accomplished without loss of parental dignity or prestige, possessions which a parent should treasure and preserve.

To-morrow: "Well-fed Baby Will Not Suffer From Colic."

Brentwood

Mr. and Mrs. E. Rochon, Mount Newton, entertained on Saturday evening in honor of Adolphe Rochon, the occasion being his twenty-first birthday. The guests were: Mrs. Maber, Mrs. Whitehouse, Mrs. Lipsey, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fettes, Mr. and Mrs. H. Ensor, Miss Cochrane, Misses Jean Bagley, Marjorie Hughes, Hilda Jones, Gladys Guy, Kathleen Greenwood, Nancy and Kathleen Whitehouse, Margaret Johnstone, Messrs. Edward Maber, Ernest and Peter Whitehouse, T. Wiley, Harold Andrew, Claude Creed, Ralph Bagley, Jack Hawkes and Chick Osborne.

Miss June Oldershaw with her brothers, Douglas, Vernon, Norman and Ronald, have arrived from Bakersfield, Cal., to join their parents at their summer camp at Moodyville.

Mr. and Mrs. Phil. Kelly and baby daughter, Jennifer Elizabeth, formerly of Cobble Hill, have taken a cottage at the beach for the summer months.

Complaint that cans, bottles and seaweed litter a beach between Ogden Point docks and the Outer Wharves, which is daily used by about 100 small children, has been filed with the City Council by the Native Sons of Canada. The resort could be cleaned up by a few men, and the work would be suitable as a relief undertaking, no material being required, the Native Sons point out.

"The boss wants me to quit work and marry him—but I'm going to wait until I get my two weeks' vacation with pay."

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

The thoughtful housewife usually plans here dessert from three angles—nourishment, cost and beauty. The summer dessert especially can be planned to provide much nourishment for the meal. The nourishment required in the dessert is determined by the rest of the meal. Calculate the calories and observe the protein contained in the main part of the menu. If the first course of a luncheon is a rich cream soup, a dessert made of milk and eggs is not suitable. If the meat course has been a heavy roast, a light, cooling dessert should be chosen. But when the meat course has been light, as is often the case in hot weather, the dessert can well make up the necessary protein in its milk and eggs.

A very sweet dessert often adds much to the fuel value of a meal, for sugar is a quick energizer or stimulant. In summer the sweetness of desserts should be given careful attention. It should, of course, be sweet enough to be platable, but over-sweetening produces just that much extra heat.

If the meal has been lacking in bulk and breadstuffs, a rice or cereal pudding fills the need.

CONTRAST IN COURSE

If the meat and vegetables have been expensive, serve an inexpensive dessert. This does not mean a commonplace one, but rather one that is simple, requiring no large amount of cream nor expensive, elaborate ingredients. Contrast is always essential and a simple dessert should follow an elaborate main course.

Fruit is the ideal dessert for summer on several counts. One of the criticisms of the food of the average family is that too little fruit is used in the daily dietary. The serving of fresh fruit saves time, an important factor in a busy mother's day. Waste can be avoided if several varieties are put up together. Served in combination, none need go begging because there's not enough to "go round." Slightly sweented and chilled, there's nothing more refreshing than a fruit cup.

Fruit juices stiffened by the addition of gelatine make excellent hot weather desserts for almost all ages and types. The person who is dieting to reduce may have this dessert without cream, while the one who wants to gain in weight will find the fruit stimulating to the appetite with the cream adding many calories to his diet.

Rice puddings always are acceptable and can be as inexpensive and simple as one wishes. When made with milk and eggs, they are very nourishing and are particularly suitable to serve after a summer vegetable-plate dinner.

CHILLED ORANGE SOUFFLE

Three eggs, 1 lemon, 1 tablespoon granulated gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 2 oranges, ½ cup sugar, few grains salt, ½ cup whipping cream.

Soften gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Beat yolks of eggs with sugar and lemon juice and cook over hot water until thickened. Stir in softened gelatine and let stand until cool. Add pulp of oranges freed from skin and seeds, whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry and cream whipped until firm. Mix lightly and turn into a mold. Let stand on ice for two hours or longer and thoroughly chilled and firm. Unmold and serve.

TO-MORROW'S MENU

Breakfast: Unhulled strawberries cereal, cream, potato omelet, graham muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon: Cream of spinach soup, croutons, open sandwiches of marmalade and nuts, fruit cup, milk, tea.

Dinner: Slice of ham baked in milk, lattice potatoes, carrots and peas in turnip cups, head lettuce with French dressing, orange souffle, chocolate drop cookies, milk, coffee.

CONSTIPATION

Banished for 20 Years

No one could have had more experience of constipation than this man. His method of correcting the trouble would surely put right anybody who suffers in a similar way.

"I am now approaching my forty-ninth birthday and have used Kruschen Salts for many years. As a boy and youth I suffered at frequent times agonies from constipation. This was, after a time, somewhat relieved by a special pill compounded to a prescription, but which, at times, had a weakening effect. On someone's recommendation I tried a bottle of Kruschen Salts, and since then—a matter of at least twenty years ago—have used nothing else. My daily dose I take in hot water at 7.45 a.m."—E. A. D.

The six salts in Kruschen are Nature's own prescription for keeping the organs of elimination working properly—gently but surely expelling all poisonous waste matter every day.

Start on "the little daily dose" of Kruschen to-morrow and so take the first step along the royal road to perfect health. (Advt.)

The greatest thrill a mother can know

HER BABY . . . thriving . . . gaining by leaps and bounds! His back strong and fine as a little champion's. His teeth developing perfectly. His legs straight and sturdy. His skin rosy, his flesh firm, his whole body a living promise of health—radiant, buoyant health — through the years to come!

Can any food except Nature's food build such a baby?

Millions of mothers in the past 75 years have answered Yes to this question. And now more emphatically still a world-famous clinic answers Yes.

Living proof—in millions of healthy babies

Seventy-five years ago, Gail Borden—pioneer in the movement for pure milk—gave Eagle Brand to the mothers of America. Today, Eagle Brand—second only to mother's milk in easy digestibility—is known as an infant food the world over. Eagle Brand has raised more healthy babies than any other food on earth, excepting mother's milk. In practically every community in this land are healthy, sturdy boys and girls, and men and women who got their start in life on Eagle Brand. Inquire in your own community and see how these Eagle Brand ex-babies compare.

What the scientists discovered

But newer still is the news from a world-famous baby clinic. Two physicians fed a group of 50 average babies on Eagle Brand over a period of several months—checking with closest care every detail of their health and growth. X-ray pictures of bones were taken regularly, to make sure of the way that bones were growing. Tooth development was watched. Weight and height were periodically recorded. Strength and alertness were measured. Blood tests were made . . . And those 50 Eagle Brand babies, judged by every known test, proved themselves ideally nourished.

"The Plains of Abraham"

BY JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD

(Copyright by Doubleday Doran Co., Inc.)

Chenufsio was the Rome of a wide domain in that period of its history when Jeems and Toinette came with Tiaoga and his warriors. In it were three hundred people, and at full strength it numbered sixty fighting men. It nestled at the edge of a large meadow which the river embraced in a horseshoe curve and its centre was a stockaded stronghold with long-houses, storage buildings, cabins, and tepees sufficient for the entire population in times of stress.

The Senecas had vineyards and fine orchards of apples, cherries, and plums, and they also grew tobacco and potatoes on a considerable scale. In the cornfields and growing from the same hills were pumpkins and beans, and everywhere were sunflowers of a dwarfish kind grown for the oil which was extracted from their seeds.

When the season was good, Chenufsio lived in comfort during the long winter months. The granaries were full, large quantities of dried fruits were in the storehouses, and underground cellars were stocked with apples, pumpkins, potatoes and squashes. When the season was bad, Chenufsio drew a belt tightly about its stomach for five months of the year. For three of these months it starved.

This was a bad season. Spring frosts had killed the early vegetation and had blackened the buds of apples and plums. The corn was so poor that, after roasting time, only enough was left for the next year's planting, and beans and potatoes had suffered until there was less than a third of a crop. But the people of Chenufsio wore no appearance of gloom on the day when Tiaoga and his triumphant warriors were to arrive from the east. Tjaoga's messenger had brought the news that not a man had been lost in their invasion of the territory of their enemies. This was unusual, and it put fresh courage into the hearts of those who had seen the year go against them. Tiaoga's homecoming with the spoils of war was an augury which more than discounted empty cellars and granaries.

As a part of these spoils, they knew Tiaoga was bringing a daughter to take the place of Silver Heels.

This convinced them that fortune was bound to smile on them again. They had loved Soi Yan Makwun. With her death had come bad times. Now the spirits would give them an easy winter, and next year would see the earth flowering with good things.

Chenufsio made ready for the feast. There were still plenty of earthly things and a supply of late green corn packed away in husks and kept for this occasion.

The last day was long for Toinette. It had begun at dawn, and though Tiaoga halted his men at intervals to let her rest, it had not ended with dusk. Darkness came before they reached a plain on the far side of which was a hill. Beyond this hill was Chenufsio. They could see the glow of a great fire lighting the sky.

Toinette forgot her exhaustion at this sign of the end of their journey. She observed that someone took from Jeems the scalp of a man he had killed, which he had tried to conceal from her eyes under a flap of buckskin. Then she saw all of the scalps taken by the Senecas fastened like dangling fish to a slender pole which was carried on the shoulders of two men, the hair of one of these scalps reaching almost to the ground. With the scalp carriers in the lead, they came to the hill at the edge of the plain and looked down on the valley of Chenufsio.

At Tiaoga's command the men bearing the scalp-laden pole had gone ahead, and now Tiaoga followed with his men in single file. Toinette and Jeems were midway in the line. Wide slave collars of buckskin had been placed about their necks, and Jeems was stripped of his weapons. The warriors did not hurry. Their step was slow and steady, and not a man broke the silence with a whisper or a word. A sea of torches advanced. It rolled in and out of the hollows like a flood, then came to a level place and formed two streaming lines of fire. The scalp bearers reached these a hundred yards ahead of Tiaoga and his men. Toinette could see them enter the light of the torches, and in these moments the voices of the savages rose to the heavens. Tiaoga paused, and not until the scalp bearers had paraded their grisly burden the entire length of the gauntlet of flame did he proceed again.

Toinette felt stealing over her a strange faintness of body and limb. Stories which she had forgotten, stories she had heard of the Indians from childhood, stories that had sent shivers through the hearts of a thousand homes along the frontiers all crowded upon her at once. Wild tales of appalling torture and vengeance, of stake and fire and human suffering. She had listened to them from her father's lips, from passing voyageurs, had heard them in the gossip of the seigneurie. And she remembered by name this ordeal which awaited them. It was Le Chemin de Feu—the Road of Fire—through which they must pass. Others had died in it. Roasted by pitch-filled torches. Blinded. Killed by inches. So she had been told.

Tiaoga and his warriors moved slowly. They were like bronze men without flesh or emotions. Their heads were high, their bodies straight, their jaws set hard as they stalked at a death-march pace between the columns of their people. Jeems fell into this rhythmic movement as the mouth of the torch monster began to swallow them. And then with eyes that became flame-lit pools of fear and exhaustion Toinette saw that not a hand gave a sign of rising against them. The torches coughed and flared, but not a spark touched their skins in passing. No eyes gleamed hatred at them. No fingers clenched, no hand was raised. The things she had heard in the land of her people were lies. The Indians killed in war but they did not torture. They did not pull out eyes and thrust sticks through quivering flesh. They were men and women and children like all other men and women and children. These truths she thought she had discovered for herself.

But one thing she did not fully know. She might have learned it had she caught the low-voiced whisperings which followed the passing of the warrior: "She is Tiaoga's daughter—she is the spirit of Soi Yan Makwun returned to us in the flesh—now our good fortune will return—the sun will shine—light and laughter will come—for Soi Yan Makwun is here, out of death to live with us again!"

They crossed a field of darkness toward the fires, and when they came among them Tiaoga was marching in Jeems's place and Jeems had disappeared. She had not sensed his going or Tiaoga's presence, and before she knew that Jeems was no longer among the warriors, she found herself standing alone with the Seneca chief, the people gathering in a circle around them. Tiaoga began to speak. His voice renewed her confidence as she searched for Jeems. He was describing the success of their gods in restoring Silver Heels to her people. It did not take long for Tiaoga to tell his story. His voice rose. His scarred and bitter face assumed a strange gentleness, and Toinette knew then that Jeems was safe though she could not see him. She waited, trembling, and at last Tiaoga was finished and stood for a moment with upraised hand amid a great hush—then spoke a single name, Opitchi. A girl, the Thrush, sprang forward, and as she came Tiaoga took the slave collar from Toinette's throat and crushed it into the earth, with his moccasined foot. A murmur rang through the circle. Tiaoga stood with his arms folded across his breast, and Toinette felt the hands of the Thrush drawing her away.

WHEN RUSS COLUMBO SANG GARY'S SONGS AND PHILLIPS HOLMES WAS BESSIE LOVE

BY ROBERT GRANDON

"When I doubled for Bessie Love," Phillips Holmes said the other day . . . and no wonder I interrupted him . . . Who wouldn't? Can you imagine that energetic young man playing a Bessie Love role?

But that's just what he did. Phillips was eight years old then, and was rung in to play Bessie as an eight-year-old . . . And he got the job because he looked the way they imagined Bessie looked when she was the age of Phillips . . . which is something like Francis Bushman Jr. . . . Junior got his start back in the good old Essanay days when Senior shared film popularity with Maurice Costello . . . Junior played parts where Senior had to be shown as a boy.

Russ Columbo is on his own now, better known as a radio star than a film player . . . But he appeared in several films with Gary Cooper . . . and he got his start doubling for Gary . . . Cooper made the faces and Russ sang the songs . . . They say the camera doesn't lie, but how about the mike?

Margaret Livingston was another who started doubling for a voice . . . Only she doubled for a parrot . . . And Margie Hines may be heard of in her own name before long . . . She does a boop-a-dooping for the "Betty Boop" cartoon films.

Rita La Roy, who started as a parachute jumper, doing stunts leading women were afraid to tackle, has come into her own . . . And Monte Blue, who threatens to come back, took chances to save the epidermis of many a tender leading man . . . Hoot Gibson came to Hollywood as a stunt man and got his chance when the other fellow, fell off a horse and broke a leg.

Estelle Taylor was another stunter . . . She did Dorothy Dalton's rough stuff when that lady was high-and-mighty in western's and the like . . . and Joan Crawford doubled for Eleanor Boardman . . . Even Loretta Young got her chance when her sister, Polly Ann, couldn't be found and the studio took her because she looked like Polly. So, perhaps after all, doubles have a chance . . . despite directors' figures that only one out of 10,000 applicants ever stands any show of making good.

Robert Grandon has a new leaflet on interesting facts about Greta Garbo, which you can secure by sending two cents and a stamped, addressed envelope to him in care of this paper. Write for it now.

BEDTIME STORY

Uncle Wiggily's Bluebirds

By HOWARD R. GARIS

When Uncle Wiggily hopped down stairs in his hollow stump bungalow one morning, the first one he saw was his wife, Mrs. Longears, sitting on a chair near the table.

"What is the matter, my dear?" asked the rabbit gentleman of his bunny wife. "You look very unhappy."

"I am unhappy!" murmured Mrs Longears.

"Why?" asked her husband.

"Because I have torn my red dress," answered the rabbit lady. "See, here is a big hole in it and I wanted to look so nice going down town shopping this morning. Oh, dear"

"Oh, don't let a little thing like a torn dress make you unhappy," spoke Uncle Wiggily. "Think how many bigger things there are to be unhappy and sad about, if you must be unhappy and sad, which I don't at all like. Cheer up! You can easily mend that dress."

Then Uncle Wiggily hopped out to the kitchen and there he saw Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy sitting glum and forlorn on a chair near the stove.

"What is the matter with you, Jane?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "You also seem unhappy."

"I am," squeaked the muskrat lady housekeeper. "I have burned you carrot oatmeal this morning. Oh, dear!"

"Cheer up!" cried Uncle Wiggily, twinkling his pink nose. "I like a little burned flavor in my oatmeal. It gives it a taste."

But, for all he said, Uncle Wiggily's wife did not seem to feel any happier, nor did the sad look leave Nurse Jane's face. So after he had eaten his breakfast, including the scorched oatmeal, Mr. Longears hopped outside his bungalow.

He saw something moving in the long grass near the end of the garden, something twisting and turning and coming nearer.

"Goodness me! I hope that isn't the Fox, the Wolf or the Bob Cat," murmured Mr. Longears. "If they try to catch me I shall be unhappy and that will make three. I must be careful!"

Mr. Longears watched the shaking, waving grass, ready to run away if any of the Bad Chaps should suddenly pop out, but none did. Then out of the grass hopped Mr. No Tail, the bull frog father of Bully and Bawly, the boy frogs.

"Good morning, Uncle Wiggily!" croaked Mr. No Tail.

"Oh, good morning!" answered the rabbit. "Tell me," he went on, "how I can make my wife and Nurse Jane happy? They are very sad?"

"Have you tried Bluebirds?" asked Mr. No Tail.

"Bluebirds?" exclaimed the rabbit in surprise. "What do you mean, Mr. No Tail?"

"I mean," spoke the frog gentleman, "that Bluebirds always bring happiness. Just as the Robin brings spring, so Bluebirds make for happiness. They chase sadness away. Look at me. I might be called a sad old croaker, and so I am, at times. But when I feel sad I go out and look for a Bluebird and then I am happy. Call the Blue birds to sing to your wife and Nurse Jane and they will no longer be sad."

"That's a jolly idea!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "I'll go look for those happiness birds right away." Over the fields he hopped and soon, down in a meadow, Uncle Wiggily saw a patch of blue color.

"Come, Bluebirds!" he called. "Come and make some happiness."

"We are not Bluebirds," a voice answered, "we are just blue violet flowers growing in the grass. But we would help you if we could."

"Thank you," answered the rabbit. "But I must have birds." Then he hopped on farther and, all at once, he looked up and saw much blue. "That must be a flock of happiness birds," said the rabbit. But when he looked again it was only the blue sky and he knew the sky could not come down to make his wife and Nurse Jane happy.

But a little while after this, sitting on a stump in a field, Uncle Wiggily heard a flutter of wings, he heard a jolly song being sung and then the air all about him seemed filled with the blue of the sky, the blue of the sea, the blue of violets and the blue of a baby's eyes. And then the rabbit looked up and saw—the Bluebirds!

"Oh, I am so glad you have come!" he called, twinkling his pink nose at them. "Will you flutter to my bungalow and cheer up my wife and Nurse Jane?"

"Surely we will!" sang the Bluebirds. Away they flew, faster than Uncle Wiggily could hop. And when he reached his bungalow there were the Bluebirds flitting all about. Mrs. Longears came to the door.

"Oh, Wiggy!" she said. "I am so happy. I have mended the hole in my dress." And Nurse Jane in the kitchen said: "I am so happy. I have made carrot oatmeal without scorching it." And Uncle Wiggily said:

"Hurray! Bluebirds for happiness!"

So everything turned out just as it should. And if the roller skate will give the rubber ball a ride down to the corner to get a drink of water I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's rock trick.

THIRD VICTORIA (ST. BARNABAS) TROOP

The regular weekly meeting of the Third Victoria (St. Barnabas) Troop, held on Friday evening last at headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, opened with the Lord's Prayer at 7 o'clock. W. G. Lythgoe, the scoutmaster, congratulated the scouts on winning the cup at the rally. The troop owes a debt of gratitude to Jack Rawlins, who won so many honors in the swimming gala held at the Crystal Garden. The Third Victoria Troop won first place in three events, second place in two and third in one, making a total of eighty-five points. St. Mary's Second Troop came second. The St. Barnabas Cub Pack came first in the cub field competitions and Third Victoria Pack took second place. Both are connected with the Third Victoria Troop.

The up-island scouts thank the Victoria troops for billeting them and giving them such a good time, and they hope to be able to return the compliment some day.

Major Hardinge, scoutmaster of St. Luke's Troop, gave out tickets for the cricket game between the Australian team and the Vancouver Island cricketers. The matches are to be held at the University School Grounds on June 18 and 20.

The troop then held relay games on Harris Green, at the upper end of Pandora Avenue. When the troop returned to headquarters patrol instruction was held for a few minutes. This was followed by a number of games, in which points were awarded to the winning patrols. After patrol inspection, the meeting closed at 9 o'clock.

The results of the patrol competitions for the month of June were as follows: First, Beaver Patrol; second, Owl Patrol; third, Wolf Patrol; fourth, Eagle Patrol; fifth, Fox Patrol, and sixth, Bulldog Patrol.

Mellon Likes Beer Best, London Hears

Reuter's Special to The Victoria Times

London—London has given a cordial welcome to its distinguished new resident, Andrew Mellon, the United States Ambassador. He has been accused of being unduly reserved, but that is only because nowadays the world is so full of publicity seekers that a modest man seems quite a phenomenon. Anyway, Mr. Mellon is more discreet than "close."

One has only heard him accused of one indiscretion. They say that at Cap Ferrat one hot day last summer he was watching some young people playing tennis. After the game there was a discussion about what was the most cooling drink. Then Mr. Mellon interposed. "Beer," he said firmly, "is the best drink."

RELATIVES OFTEN TO BLAME FOR "NERVE" CASES

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Neurasthenics, psychasthenics and "nerve" patients of all sorts multiply in these times of stress and turmoil. The word "neurasthenia" has become trite. It represents the person who suffers from inadequacy, but the condition is sometimes due to a weakened physical state which makes it impossible for the person to respond mentally to the strain of his situation.

The neurastenic suffers with pain in the back of the neck sometimes described as a feeling of tightness, aches in the back, and he is likely to feel tired invariably on getting up in the morning and irritable to an extreme at the end of the day.

Dr. W. H. Mayer emphasizes the necessity of finding any psychic conflict or physical derangement from which these people suffer if the basic cause of the disturbance is to be eliminated

Moreover, it is necessary to have a record of the constitution of the patient and of the family history to make an accurate estimate of his condition and the reasons for it.

Too often the relatives and associates of a person who is neurasthenic or psychasthenic, failing to see any visible abnormality, credit his condition to his imagination, which merely accentuates it. Such people need human understanding.

Above all, they must regain the confidence they have lost or they will progress to the point at which they no longer can be held responsible for their actions.

The psychiatrists use the term "anxiety state" to describe the condition into which the neurasthenic passes in times of stress.

Sometimes a minor disturbance of the heart or of the stomach and intestines becomes the physical disease on which the mental state of the individual is fixed.

The followers of the modern psychology of Sigmund Freud characterize the psychasthenics, who are marked by an exceedingly easily fatigued mind, as sufferers from "compulsion neurosis." In these cases numerous doubts, fears and obsessions trouble the mentality of the patient.

Here again co-operation and understanding are essential if the patient is to be led out of his distress into confidence and recovery. Of the greatest importance is the attitude of the family toward the patient, particularly if he is compelled to live at home.

In such cases the physician sometimes finds his treatment must be applied to the relatives rather than to the patient.

FOUR KILLED BY WOOD ALCOHOL

Tragedy Follows Drinking Party in Rooming House in Toronto

Canadian Press

Toronto, June 14—Four persons lost their lives and four others narrowly escaped a similar fate as an aftermath of drinking wood alcohol, obtained surreptitiously from the cellar of a rooming house here.

William Hicks, forty, the first who died yesterday, is said by the police to have taken the poison from the cellar of his rooming house and to have shared it with the other persons after mixing it with ginger ale.

The second to succumb was Harry Johnston, thirty-five. The toll was brought to four early to-day by the deaths of Mrs. Katharine Stevens and Fred McGillivray, forty. Mrs. Stevens, police say, was one of the party that consumed some of the mixture in Hicks's room. Other men who accompanied Johnston to Hicks's room and drank some of the fluid, were ill to-day but were expected to recover.

Mrs. Hicks, widow of William Hicks, was reported at the hospital to-day to be out of danger. She was said to have consumed only a small quantity of the alcohol.

Mrs. J. Merrick, seventy-five-year-old proprietress of the rooming house where Hicks lived, explained the wood alcohol was part of the assets of a soap and perfume company in which her late husband had an interest. When the company failed the stock on hand was brought home and stored in the cellar. The five-gallon can of wood alcohol was plainly labelled "poison."

Where To Go To-night

As Advertised

ON THE SCREEN

Dominion—Edmund Lowe in "Attorney for the Defence."

Capitol — "Grand Hotel," All-star cast.

Playhouse—"Traveling Husbands," starring Evelyn Brent.

Romano—"Waterloo Bridge," with Mae Clarke.

Empire—"Sunshine Susie," British picture.

Columbia — "The Sunrise Trail," starring Bob Steele.

Crystal Garden — Swimming and Dancing.

DOMINION THEATRE

What is the reaction of a public prosecutor when he sends an innocent man to his death? Although the law does not hold him for murder—he is really a murderer—he has taken a life. Whereas others kill with dangerous weapons, he killed with mere words—but words so powerful, so vitriolic that a man was crushed under their deadening blow.

Although the law does not take toll, his own conscience makes him pay heavily—a lingering, inescapable punishment. Can he ease his conscience —make atonement in any way?

ROMANO THEATRE

James Whale, the noted English director, has an entirely blonde cast for "Waterloo Bridge," the Universal production at the Romano Theatre, at least as far as the feminine portion of the players is concerned. Mae Clarke, who portrays the leading role, that of Myra, is a blonde, while Enid Bennett who is a native of York, Australia, and portrays the mother, is a decided blonde English type. Bette Davis, playing the sister, is another fair-complexioned beauty, and Doris Lloyd, another English-born actress, is likewise a blonde.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Vicki Baum worked as a chamber maid in a well-known Berlin hotel to gather the material that resulted in the writing of "Grand Hotel," which was brought to the screen with the most important all-star cast ever assembled, and is being shown to-day and for the balance of the week at the Capitol Theatre. As a novel "Grand Hotel" was on best seller lits all over the world, and when it was adapted to the stage by Miss Baum it established theatre records in many different countries. Now, as a picture presenting Greta Garbo, John Barrymore, Joan Crawford, Wallace Beery and Lionel Barrymore, it seems to have achieved the most overwhelming success of all.

No one was aware of Miss Baum's identity while she was employed in Berlin explains Frank Fortos, Hungarian writer, thus she was able, unhampered, to round out the situation and characters, which, for a number of years, had been shaping themselves in her mind.

EMPIRE THEATRE

"When 'Sunshine Susie' comes your way go and see her. You can't help liking her!" That's the advice given by Byrne Saunders, the screen critic of "Chatelaine," Canada's leading women's magazine, in a summary of the outstanding British pictures that are coming to the Canadian theatres. In the course of her article she says:

"The only one of these I have seen at the moment is 'Sunshine Susie,' and without reservations of any kind, I can report this to be as gay and entertaining a film as has been released from any studio in the world. In previous years one has been inclined to say that a British picture was good—for a British picture. But 'Sunshine Susie' brings an entirely new note in musical enterainment to the screen."

"Sunshine Susie' is now being shown at the Empire Theatre.

PLAYHOUSE THEATRE

This uproarious film comedy answers a question which vitally affects a million homes: What does a traveling man do in his spare time away from home?

COLUMBIA THEATRE

An unusual part, that of a "star-packer," or a squealer, is played by Bob Steele in his newest western Tiffany picture, "The Sunrise Trail," now at the Columbia Theatre and featuring Blanche Mehaffey, Jack Clifford, Germaine De Neel, Eddie Dunn, and Fred Burns.

Steele portrays a most thankless role, but executes it to perfection. It is a complete departure from his usual run of impersonations. He is what is today known as a "stool pigeon," although in those days it was given the name of "star-packer." It becomes necessary for him, a member of the sheriff's forces, to join a cattle-rustling gang, worm his way into its machinations, gain their confidence, and subsequently secure evidence in order to convict them of their criminal operations. It is a role in which danger and evil as well as romance and love are necessarily mingled, but the combination results in good for the community and the exoneration of the hero.

CAMERON TRIAL AT JURY STAGE

The $28,000 suit of the Cameron Lumber Company against a group of fire insurance companies is due to go to the special jury under S. J. Drake late this afternoon.

Alfred Bull, chief counsel for the insurance companies, concluded his address to the jury by noon to-day. E. C. Mayers, K.C., chief counsel for the Camerons, was still on his address to the jury when the court arose at 1 o'clock and continued when the court resumed its session at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Justice D. A. McDonald, who is presiding over the Supreme Court trial now in its second week, is due to start his address to the jury after Mr. Mayers concludes.

The opinion of the jury is being ascertained by the submission of a number of questions covering the case. Their verdict will be embodied in their answers to these questions.

MISS H. FLETCHER HEADS ST. MARK'S

Young People's Society Presents Reports, Elects Officers and Arranges Picnic

The last regular business meeting of St. Mark's A.Y.P.A., was held in the parish hall yesterday evening. Acting on a motion made by W. Butts, a copy of the constitution, as it now stands, will be forwarded to the local council, present members of the A.Y.P.A. and all prospective members.

The annual report of the secretary, Miss P. Butts, was read and adopted. She was warmly commended for her untiring work throughout the year.

The treasurer gave a brief outline of the financial activities for the last year. A balance in the bank of over $100 was reported.

Mr. Butts gave a report of the badminton games played during the year, showing St. Mark's to be third in aggregate points scored. This augurs well for next year, as practically all of the players were novices.

GARDEN FETE

A committee of five was elected to meet the Women's Auxiliary on Wednesday night in regard to the garden fete to be held in Premier Tolmie's grounds on July 6. Those appointed were: Miss H. Fletcher, W. Butts, A. McMillin, F. Birthwistle and H. George.

NEWS IN BRIEF

To fill the vacancy caused by the recent resignation of H. P. Hope, head master at Brentwood College, M. H. Ellis, house master at Groves House, Shawnigan Lake School, has been appointed.

Plans are being made to hold a dinner and dance for the Kiwanians and their ladies at the Plantation next Tuesday evening. Rowan MacKenzie told the members at their luncheon today.

Members of the Kiwanis Club were urged at their luncheon yesterday to attend the naval performance of "The Middle Watch," at the Empire Theatre next week, in aid of the Jubilee and St. Joseph's hospitals.

Young Quay Shan, Chinese, charged with selling opium, was granted a remand until Monday in the City Police Court to-day R. C. Lowe, counsel for the defence, asked bail to be set and Magistrate George Jay agreed to $2,000 in two sureties.

Lode prospecting in British Columbia is in full swing, judging by the many samples being received at the office of D. E. Whittaker, provincial assayer. Earlier in the spring black sand predominated, but this month brought in a large number of hard rock sacks

Provincial Police in launch No. 7 are investigating the wreckage of a square-stern open boat, painted grey, probably 24 feet long, which was found smashed up on Michigan Beach, Nootka, some time ago. Diligent inquiries have as yet failed to establish ownership and it is not known if the wreck was associated with loss of life.

Convicted on a charge of being in control of an automobile while intoxicated, Arnold S. Blaney was sentenced to seven days' imprisonment in the City Police Court to-day. Mr. Blaney was taken into custody on June 4, following a collision between his car and that of a Nanaimo resident at the corner of Bay and Douglas Streets.

A group portrait of the Montreal City Council of the year 1888, sitting in formal session, offered to the city of Montreal by Victoria, will be warmly welcomed by Montreal, Mayor Fernand Rinfret has informed the Victoria City Council. The offer of the picture was made recently, and in his acceptance Mayor Rinfret comments, "I am sure it will be a good way of renewing friendly relations."

Hugh Barrett Dobbs, the "Dobbsie" of radio fame, was introduced to members of the Kiwanis Club at their luncheon to-day. He was being entertained by the Publicity Bureau in an adjoining dining-room and stepped in for a few moments to see the Kiwanians. He said he was glad to be in Victoria, and invited all the Kiwanians to his broadcast to-morrow morning, when he would tell 3,000,000 people, he said, about the beauties of the city.

Dr. S. M. Kingston, member for Grand Forks-Greenwood, was in the city to-day and met the cabinet, urging the government to grant a water license to Grand Forks, enabling it to manufacture power for itself from the plant it already has installed at a cost of approximately $70,000. The application for this water license has been opposed by the West Kootenay Power and Light Company, which claims it has spent $450,000 on power lines in the district and should be protected in that investment.

Charges of eastern commission houses that Vancouver brokers shipped immature head lettuce to Toronto and Montreal are denied in communications to the Department of Agriculture. Three cars were shipped, all of them being inspected by federal officials at Vancouver. A reduction was made on two of these cars, while the third was never opened and eventually was sold for freight charges. Coast brokers claim the only protection they have against charges of poor quality is for federal inspection at point of destination.

A large number of the fine chestnut trees ornamenting the boulevards along Cook Street are to be removed. The parks committee of the City Council will recommend that alternate trees between Fort Street and Rockland Avenue on the east side, and between Fort and Mears Streets on the west side to be eliminated. Towards the seafront alternate trees on the east side of Cook Street, between McKenzie Street and Chapman Street, and also between May and Leonard Streets, will be taken out.

A charge of driving to the common danger against Charles Haithwaite, 1105 Esquimalt Road, was dismissed and another of failing to return to the scene of an accident was withdrawn in the City Police Court this morning. Evidence for the defence was to the effect the driver of the car had been forced to the wrong side of the road to avoid a collision with a truck and that John Jansson, struck by Mr. Haithwaite's automobile, had not been seen by the driver. The accused had been unaware of the accident, he stated. Alexis Martin appeared for the defence.

Two syndicates, one British and the other American, looking for gold properties, are negotiating for control of claims on Cayoosh Creek, in the Lillooet Mining Division. An option has been given the British syndicate, it is understood here, by Arthur F. Noel and associates of Vancouver, on the famous old Golden Cache and Bonanza groups, calling for diamond drilling to commence by July 1. Word was received from Vancouver to-day to the effect that the Cache, Bonanza, Surprise and Ample properties are now being examined by the British syndicate and further developments are looked for shortly.

ASK SAANICH TO PAY FOR LIGHTS

Saanich will be asked by the City Council to contribute towards the cost of maintaining thirteen more street lights located at points along the intermunicipal boundary. Payment of $25 annually for each light will be sought, this being the rate now paid by Saanich for six lights along Gorge and Harriet Roads.

The additional street lights for which Saanich will be asked to pay are located at street intersections along Burnside Road, Tolmie Avenue and Richmond Road.

Bi-lingual Translator For Rotary Conference

Telephonic Invention, Used For First Time, Enables Foreign Delegates to Understand Proceedings

Fellowship Dinner This Evening Will Be Attended By 300 Delegates and Guests

By means of a bi-lingual telephonic translator, which has been installed in the convention hall at the Empress Hotel, delegates of Spanish extraction attending the International Rotary Assembly, which inaugurates its session at 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, will be able to understand President Sydney Pascall's message as it is delivered as clearly as the British and American delegates.

There are a number of delegates from South American countries and Cuba who use the Spanish language, and the translating invention is being introduced here for the first time at a Rotary International Convention.

It was invented by Edward A. Filene, a prominent business man of Boston, Mass., for use by the Council of the League of Nations.

The crystal ballroom of the Empress Hotel will be the Rotary convention headquarters for the balance of the week, when questions will be taken up by the district governors for action before the Rotary convention at Seattle on Monday.

127 DELEGATES

There will be 127 delegates in attendance to-morrow, including seventy-three district governors.

The president's dais has been erected on the south side of the chamber with the delegates' desks arranged in semi-circular fashion. Each desk is equipped with individual head-pieces for the use of the delegates, if they so wish. Two interpreters will be located near the president's chair. As the business of the assembly proceeds an interpreter will repeat the remarks in Spanish or English, as the case may be. The British delegates will equally be able to understand speeches delivered in Spanish by foreign delegates.

The business meetings of the convention will be held in private.

TO-MORROW'S PROGRAMME

The programme, commencing to-morrow, will be as follows: 9 a.m., meeting called to order; 9.05 a.m., president's message; 9.30 a.m., general statement re R.I.; 10 a.m., questions and discussion; 11 a.m., the governor's office, where, why, what, how financed; 11.15 a.m., questions and answers; 11.45 a.m., the aims and objects programme and its application to clubs of varying sizes; 12.15 p.m., adjournment; 12.20 p.m., assembly photograph; 2 p.m., the aims and objects programme, vocational service, what it means and how it can be applied; 2.45 p.m., the aims and objects programme, community service, what it means and how it can be applied; 3.30 p.m., the aims and objects programme, community service, boys' work as a permanent investment; 4.15 p.m., the aims and objects programme, international service, what it means and how it can be applied; 5 p.m., the economic advisory committee, their duties and activities; 5.15 p.m., adjournment.

FELLOWSHIP DINNER

This evening the Rotary Fellowship dinner will be held in the lounge adjoining the Tudor Grill at the Empress Hotel. Those attending the function will linclude the members of the international executive together with the others making up the assembly as well as a number of invited guests, totaling about 300 persons in all. President Pascall will preside.

Short addresses of welcome will be extended on behalf of the people of the province by Lieutenant-Governor J. W. Fordham Johnson, Premier Tolmie, and Mayor Leeming. Robert E. Heun, first vice-president, Rotary International, and Luis Machado y Ortega, Cuba, Havana, will reply. There will be no other speeches.

AIR CRUISE

President Pascall, Miss Pascall, G. Fred Birks and H. Philippi of Bandoeng, Java, shortly before noon to-day flew by Canadian Airways plane to Vancouver for installation of Rotary officers. The party will return late this afternoon, landing at the Esquimalt Harbor air base.

Mr. Philippi, honorary commissioner, Rotary International, arrived here to-day by the liner. President Madison from the Far East. He is managing director of the geological survey office of the Dutch East Indies at Bandoeng.

BLIND DISPLAY ARTICLES HERE

First Exhibition of Its Kind Is Arranged By B.C. Branch of Blind Institute

An exhibition of work done by men and women trained at the British Columbia branch of the Canadian National Institute of the Blind, in Vancouver, was opened yesterday afternoon in an office at the corner of Broad and View Streets, kindly loaned by the Victoria Art Gallery and Bazaar. The exhibition is the first of its kind in Victoria and is designed to show the public what can be done and what the money donated is used for.

The exhibition will continue till Saturday, with different blind people and their work every day. The work on exhibition is done by Victoria people, who have been trained at the Vancouver institution. Miss V. G. Stark, who has recently spent six months at Toronto making a further study of her particular line of service to the blind and who spends a good deal of her time collecting and selling the work of the local blind, is in attendance at the exhibition office.

The general supervisor of the exhibition is Charles Brown, Vancouver, supervisor of the sheltered industries. Fred Landsberg, one of the directors of Vancouver Island, is also assisting.

The exhibits to-day included woolen and leather bags, brooms, small brushes, aprons, dominoes, door mats, souvenir trays, toys and other small articles. There was a special machine for the making of brooms, which is operated by a Vancouver man, one of the nineteen blind who work in a factory over there. Orders are being taken at the office for these brooms, which are exceptionally well made.

"Dobbsie" Looks Victoria Over

Shell Ship of Joy Captain Arrives For Morning Broadcast To-morrow

Meets Premier, Mayor and Other Dignitaries and Lunches at Empress

Capt. Hugh Dobbs, to the radio world "Dobbsie of the Shell Ship of Joy," who will broadcast from Victoria to-morrow morning at 8 o'clock, is seeing as much of Vancouver Island as the time at his disposal will allow.

"Dobbsie" flew to Victoria from Vancouver this morning and the genial, breezy leader of a happy group of broadcasters known to millions who listen in to his early morning programmes, immediately started out in company with representatives of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau to see the sights.

George I. Warren, Victoria and Island Publicity Commissioner, other representatives of the bureau, the Chamber of Commerce and the City Council greeted Capt. Dobbs on his arrival. He was driven to the Parliament Buildings to meet Premier Tolmie and members of his cabinet. An informal luncheon at the Empress Hotel followed.

Ideal weather for the flight to Victoria and for sightseeing afterwards favored the visit. The reception committee made a point of showing the visitor as much of the surrounding country as possible and had hopes of giving him a taste of fishing at Brentwood or some other favorable spot which might inspire him to broadcast Vancouver Island holiday attractions to thousands listening in to-morrow morning.

The broadcast will be at 8 o'clock in the morning over CFCT from Temple Hall. Tom Oakley and his orchestra, "Wee Willie," and the other popular artists who assist the captain in putting over his bright programme, will be on hand. The public is invited.

BAND CONCERT

In conjunction with the programme of Captain Dobbs, the following numbers will be rendered by the First Battalion Sixteenth Canadian Scottish Pipe Band: March, "79th Farewell to Gibraltar"; Strathspey, "Because He Was a Bonny Lad"; reel, "Killicoy Castle"; march, "Earl of Mansfield"; "Colonel Howe," specially written by Pipe Major Wallace, leader of the band; march, "Happy We Been Together."

The band will consist of Pipe Major Wallace, Drum Sergeant J. Gow, Corporal J. Mars, Pipers A. Pollock, D. Balfour, H. Mitchell, S. Smith, J. Ccutts J. Robertson and S. Harrison.

WOULD CHECK SCHOOL COSTS

The Victoria Ratepayers' Association has asked the City Council to bring into effect the new school taxes authorized by the Legislature last spring. The association also asks that a referendum on continuance of dental and medical services be submitted at the next civic elections. It is further suggested that the council notify the School Board that no larger sum will be available for school purposes than that actually collected and made available to the trustees as and when collected.

A remand until next Monday was granted Der Jong Fook, charged with driving to the common danger, in the Esquimalt Police Court yesterday.

TIMBER DEAL TAX APPEALED

Graham Island Case Brought Before Higher Court Here

Government's Levy on Profit From Sale of Half-billion Feet Involved

Ronald P. Stockton, Vancouver counsel, to-day brought the Graham Island Timber Company taxation assessment case before the Court of Appeal here. The case, which has been before lower judicial bodies, involves the taxation imposed by Provincial Tax Assessor Charles R. Brown of Vancouver on the profit made on the sale of half a billion feet of spruce and other timber standing on 20,000 acres to the Powell River Company.

Mr. Stockton explained that the Washington Pulp and Paper Company, operating the mill at Port Angeles, bought the Graham Island timber lands from the Western Coal and Iron Corporation in 1923, through Michael Charles Lawlor for $240,000. The pulp company then formed the Graham Island Timber Company to which it sold the 20,000 acres of timber for a total price of $575,000, of which $275,000 was payable in cash and the remainder in fully paid up shares of the Graham Island Timber Company.

"Because of difficulties in towing to Port Angeles, it was some time later decided to dispose of this timber," Mr. Stockton went on. "It was sold to the Powell River Company in 1926 for $510,500, less 10 per cent commission, which meant the Graham Island Timber Company realized about $550,000 net. As our acquisition cost was $575,000, and our selling price $550,000 there was an actual loss to the company and therefore there could be no assessment.

"The provincial assessor, however, disregards the price paid by the Graham Island Timber Company and goes back and takes the price of $240,000 paid by the Washington state company and assessed us on the basis of an income of $188,689."

In reply to statements from the justices to the effect that the assessor apparently ignored the shares paid as having value in arriving at the price, Mr. Stockton said, the Washington company, owning the Graham Island Timber Company shares, was the one liable for the taxation on the profit accruing as income from these shares.

Eric Pepler, counsel for the assessor and the government, said his position was that the Graham Island company shares were not part of the cost of timber.

At the conclusion of Mr. Stockton's argument this afternoon, Mr. Pepler will present the government's side.

REALTOR'S COMMISSIONS SUSTAINED

C. W. St. John, counsel for J. Malcolm and H. J. Malcolm as members of the Vancouver real estate firm of J. Malcolm & Son, was awarded the victory by the court in the appeal brought against their judgment in the lower courts over commissions for the sale of the Carlton Hotel Company in Vancouver. J. H. MacInnes, counsel for the Carlton Company, objected to the award by the lower court of two commissions, one of $1,000 and another of $825, on what turned out to be only one sale, as the first was never completed.

Mr. St. John argued that the trial judge had found that the Malcolms had brought the vendors and the prospective purchasers together, with the result that an agreement for sale of the property was executed, and therefore they had done all necessary to entitle them to the commission.

After hearing Mr. St. John, the appeal justices ruled that the bringing of the action for specific performance and obtaining judgment was an admission of the contract for sale, and dismissed the appeal of the Carlton Company.

SOUTH AMERICA LUNCHEON TOPIC

Rotarian James Roth Tells Kiwanians of Many Countries in Latin America

Venezuela Has No External Debt But Other Countries Have Troubles

An interesting tour of South America was briefly sketched to members of the Kiwanis Club today at their luncheon in the Empress Hotel by Rotarian James Roth of Chicago, formerly United States Consul to many Latin-American countries.

Mr. Roth spoke of Colombia and the city of Papilion, which was founded by the Spanish in 1537. Although ancient it had wide roads, the speaker said, and was one of the most beautiful cities in South America. Each home was a museum in itself. The city had given nine presidents to Colombia. The people were highly cultured. The city was the seat of a fine university. Colombia was making great progress, Mr. Roth said, although, of course, it was having its troubles along with the rest of the world.

Venezuela was probably the only country in the world, the speaker remarked, that owed no money to any other country. It had only a small internal debt. The chief products were oil, petroleum and coffee, prices for which were extremely low at the present time.

Equador had political troubles, Mr. Roth said, but would come out all right. This country was the home of the famous Panama hats. In this country were to be found the best examples in South America of the old colonial architecture. In Quito, the church of the Jesuits, was made of hand-hewn stone and gold leaf.

Peru was having a hard time of it now, the speaker said. Lima was making wonderful strides and was a beautiful city. The principal products of Peru were copper, cotton and sugar, but the prices were down now and the country was suffering financially as a result.

Mr. Roth spoke of the boundary troubles between Bolivia and Paraguay. Neither country wanted to give in, he said, so he was unable to voice an opinion as to the outcome. At the present time a neutral commission is at work on the problem.

Bolivia's tin mines, the greatest in the world, Mr. Roth said, were in a sad state. They used to employ 7,000 men daily, but now only 3,000 men are engaged three days a week. Bolivia is filled with minerals of all kinds, the speaker said.

The trip through the channels to the Straits of Magellan was fascinating, Mr. Roth said. He would like to compare it to the trip up the West Coast or to Alaska, because he heard they were rivals for beauty of scenery. He spoke of the Gulf of Punishment in the Straits, but fortunately he saw no rough weather. He went, through in fourteen hours, although sometimes it has taken ships ninety-six hours to do the same distance.

When in Chili he had seen 150,000 sheep being sheared at the same time. The wool was wonderful, he said. It was cold and windy down there, but this kept the wool clean and promoted growth.

FIRE WRECKS OIL REFINERY

Simplex Company's Plant on David Street Demolished By Blaze To-day

Prompt Work of Fire Department Saves Adjoining Property

The plant of the Simplex Oil Company, 532 David Street, was destroyed with an estimated loss of approximately $5,000, and the adjoining plants of the Make Mor Company, valued at about $15,000, were endangered by a blaze which originated in the oil refinery shed about 11.45 o'clock to-day.

Prompt action by the fire brigade which appeared on the scene five minutes after the call had been put in, resulted in the blaze being extinguished within half an hour.

STOVE EXPLODED

According to officials at the plant, the fire started when water was tipped on to a primus stove. The stove blew up and flames made rapid headway in the oil. It was blazing friercely when the three engines arrived.

The machinery in the destroyed plant was the most modern, having been installed recently and brought into use but a short time ago. An accurate estimate of the damage was impossible until it was found what parts of the machinery could be salvaged.

The call was the second answered by the department to-day. Just before noon the engines went out to extinguish a chimney fire at 1125 Catherine Street.

Yesterday evening the Commercial Photography Company's offices in the rear of the Langley Apartments, corner of Fort and Langley Streets, were gutted by a blaze which was brought under control after two hours' tireless work by the firemen, who had to cross over the roof of the building to reach the centre of the blaze. Inflammable photographic materials added to the difficulties met in combatting the fire. Several valuable cameras and enlarging machines were lost. The alarm was turned in at 7.16 o'clock.

A bush fire was brought under control rapidly by the department at the corner of Grosvener Street and Hillside Avenue at 3.39 o'clock yesterday afternoon and street blocks, which caught fire about 7.30 o'clock, were soon extinguished.

FORD WRITES OFF U.S. CONVENTIONS

Associated Press

Detroit, June 14.—Henry Ford believes the issues "now being stirred up at the political conventions" in the United States mean nothing, and thinks they will not have the slightest effect "on the things that we are all interested in to-day—economic recovery, jobs and money in the pocket of the average man."

In an interview to-day, Mr. Ford lauded the abilities of President Hoover and said he expected to see him re-elected "because he is the man best fitted for the job."

"One thing that should be cleared up," he said, "is that these national conventions are not so important as they are made to seem. They cannot give the people anything, and they can not take anything away from the people."

Programme Announced For Annual B.C.R.A. Meet At Heals

THE SPORTS MIRROR

Little Interest Over Schmeling-Sharkey Fight Next Week

* * *

Ballyhoo Over a New Sharkey Fails to Excite John Phan

* * *

Ruth Promises to Set a New Record With His Present Pace

* * *

Golf Has Made Tremendous Strides in Popularity Since 1895

JUST A WEEK from to-night Max Schmeling, Germany and Jack Sharkey, U.S., will step into the ring in Madison Square Garden's new outdoor bowl on Coney Island to battle for the heavyweight championship of the world, although you may not have heard about it. There certainly has been little in the way of high pressure advance publicity. The interest of John Phan has not been raised to fever heights, and it would seem as if the cash customers are very indifferent as to who wears the crown that once graced the brow of such great battlers as Jim Corbett, John L. Sullivan, Jim Jeffries, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney.

* * *

There has been a rather half-hearted sort of an effort to churn up the old ballyhoo by picturing Sharkey as the gladiator who will step into the ring and proceed to annihilate Mr. Schmeling, but there hasn't been much evidence offered that the fans have risen to that kind of bait. Not if the advance sale means anything. The customs may make the turnstiles click merrily the night of the bout, but right now it looks as if there will be plenty of empty seats when Jack and Max climb through the ropes.

* * *

The answer is undoubtedly that neither of the principals is rated very highly. Sharkey, well enough equipped in many ways to take fairly high ranking, has booted more chances than any other heavyweight contender, because of an unruly temper that gets the better of him. He's good when he's going right, but he has never stayed that way long enough at any one time. Schmeling won the title lying on his back, when he fought Sharkey two years ago. Since then he trounced Young Stribling and nobody else worth mentioning. It is a championship fight, but to the ordinary man it is just another scrap lacking anything in the way of color.

* * *

Most of the hooey surrounds the revival of Sharkey. He is a new Sharkey, and is really interested in this fight. He is bigger, stronger and is hitting harder. This should all be filed under the caption of annual report. The same report was sent forth when Sharkey was preparing for his numerous other appearances, but did not prevent him from hitting Schmeling and Scott low and from falling into a state of helplessness against Heeney and Risko. There is a new Sharkey in every fight, but you can't tell how he is going to be by his training camp form.

* * *

Babe Ruth poled out his twenty-first home run of the season yesterday, and is well up with his schedule of 1927, when he poled out sixty-four base blows to establish a new all-time major league record. Ruth has been traveling along at a merry pace, and at the time of writing was one home run behind Jimmy Foxx, first baseman of the Philadelphia Athletics, who has been setting the pace for the majors with twenty-two. Foxx has been out in front since the first few weeks of the season, but during the last two weeks Ruth has been steadily cutting into his lead, and now is a serious challenge to the A's slugger. Ruth is apparently determined to show the Yankees' owners that he fully deserved his $75,000 salary this year. Before the opening of the campaign Ruth and the Yankees engaged in a bitter duel over the salary question. Ruth wanted a one-year contract at $80,000, while the club officials were only willing to offer $70,000. A compromise was finally reached at $75,000, and apparently George Herman is worth every dime he is getting.

The steady increase in golf popularity is indicated in the number of entries for the United States open championship, figures of which were announced recently for the thirty-sixth competition at Flushing, L.I., June 23 to 25. The first open was held in 1895 at the Newport Golf Club and drew only eleven entries. The first tournament to draw more than 100 was held at Buffalo. A field of 125 started after 131 had entered.

* * *

In 1928 the 1,000 mark was passed when 1,064 filed entries, and 1,047 took patr in the various sectional qualifiers played over seventen courses, leading up to the championship proper at Olympia Fields Country Club, Chicago, which Johnny Farrell won after a play-off with Bobby Jones.

The peak year came in 1930, when 1,146 started out of an entered field of 1,177 in the qualifiers. Jones marched on to win the title at Interlachen, Minneapolis, the first of his four major conquests that year.

A field of 1,010 is booked for the qualifiers this year on June 6, thirty-seven less than a year ago. And of them, by the way, Billy Burke, the defending champion, was almost the last to enter.

Here are the interesting figures on golf's progress since 1910, showing the entries each year: 1910, 75; 1911, 79; 1912, 131; 1913, 165; 1914, 130; 1915, 141; 1916, 94; 1919, 142. 1920, 265; 1921 262; 1922, 323; 1923, 350; 1924, 319. 1925, 445. 1926, 694; 1927, 858; 1928, 1,064; 1929, 1,000; 1930, 1,177; 1931, 1,048.

ROTH PREFERS ENGLISH RUGBY

Former Stanford Star Says It Encourages More Initiative Among Players

Rotary Governor Played With University Team in 1909 at Vancouver

English rugby football as played in Canada, in the opinion of Almon. E. Roth, Palo Alto, immediate past president, Rotary International, and one-time star of the Stanford University squad, is better than the American game.

"It is a game that encourages more initiative among the players and tends to lessen the work of the coach," said Mr. Roth in discussing the English style.

Two decades ago Almon Roth held a regular berth on the Stanford team and in 1909 he came to British Columbia with the southern university squad to play an all-star Vancouver fifteen on the Brockton Point grounds in Stanley Park.

TURNED TO GOLF

In the following year he was picked to play with the Stanford team on its tour to New Zealand. In those days he was renowned as a great athlete, and now he is the picture of virile strength. He ruefully admitted, however, that he is out of training as a football player, but remarked that he got a lot of satisfaction out of golf, in which sport he carries a hefty drive.

Mr. Roth is comptroller and business manager of Stanford University, having full control of the business end of the famous California institution of learning.

CUTTING EXPENSES

"Like everyone else these days we are retrenching and keeping expenditures within reasonable limits," said Mr. Roth.

The former varsity footballer and track athlete, subsequent to his graduation, was appointed advisor to men at Stanford University, but subsequently practiced law in San Francisco. He became business manager of the university in 1919. Mr. Roth is one of the leading members of the state chamber of commerce and a director of the Palo Alto National Bank. He was one of the organizers of the Palo Alto Rotary Club and served as president in 1925 and 1926. He was vice-president, Rotary International, in 1928 and 1929, and was president last year, preceding Sydney W. Pascall.

Mr. Roth has been here on previous occasions and greatly admires the city. He thinks that the climate here is even better than in California. He was so impressed on this occasion that he wired his wife to hurry north and enjoy the holiday here. Mrs. Roth will reach the city on Friday.

The Turn of the Roadwork, 1890-1932 By Edgren

Gomez Retains His Edge Over Grove In Bitter Mound Duel

Brilliant Southpaw Hurlers of New York Yankees and Philadelphia Athletics in Great Battle for Pitching Honors in American League; Gomez in Front With Twelve Wins and One Loss; Grove Won Twelfth Game Yesterday; Ruth and Foxx Both Hit Home Runs

Deprived for the time being of anything resembling a close pennant race, American League partisans are deriving most of their midseason excitement from the hot spell between Vernon Gomez and Robert Moses Grove for pitching honors.

Defeating Cleveland yesterday, 8 to 7, Gomez stretched his record to twelve victories against one defeat and scored his ninth straight victory for the New York Yankees. Grove, beating Detroit, 8 to 1, on four scattered hits, observed his eleventh straight triumph and set his mark at twelve wins and three losses.

Grove had nothing to worry about as his mates thumped Izzy Goldstein from the mound in eight innings, but Gomez had a terrible time subduing the Indians. They slugged him for six hits and five runs in the last three frames and would have beat him in the ninth but for sensational fielding by Chapman, Lary and Lazzeri.

The home run race between Babe Ruth of the Yanks and Jimmy Foxx of the A's remained at a standstill as each belted one out of the park. Foxx hit No. 23 off Tom Bridges, Detroit. The Babe nicked Jack Russell for No. 21.

In the day's only other contest, Chicago White Sox jumped on Ed Durham and Wilcy Moore for five runs in the seventh inning to Beat Boston Red Sox, 7 to 6.

The entire National League programme was rained out.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Cleveland, June 14.—Sensational fielding by Ben Chapman, Lyn Lary and Tony Lazzeri in the ninth inning saved Lefty Gomez yesterday and enabled the star southpaw to hang up his twelfth victory as the Yankees nosed out the Indians, 8 to 7.

Trailing by two runs going into the last frame, the Indians scored once as Luke Sewell walked and Glenn Myatt, pinch hitting for Hildebrand, tripled against the fence, but the tying run was left on third base when Lazzeri made a great play on Porter's grounder to close the game.

Although Babe Ruth clouted his twenty-first home run of the year in the fifth inning with one on, it was Bill Dickey's big bat that eventually spelled catcher hit two four-baggers, his eighth and ninth of the year, also a single, drove across three runs and himself scored three.

Batteries: Gomez and Dickey; Russell, Pearson, Hudling, Hildebrand and L. Sewell.

Detroit, June 14.—Robert Moses Grove, of the Philadelphia Athletics, won his eleventh consecutive game yesterday, beating Detroit, 8 to 1, and allowing only four scattered hits.

Isadore Goldstein, young Tiger right-hander, gave Grove a fair pitching battle for seven innings, although at that point the Athletics were leading 2 to 0, both runs being made by Max Bishop after he had doubled in the third and fifth innings.

In the eighth inning Goldstein's wildness and two Tiger errors gave the Athletics four unearned runs.

The only Tiger run came in the eighth when Rhiel, batting for Goldstein, doubled, advanced on Cramer's fumble and scored after the catch of a long fly by Davis.

Jimmy Foxx slammed his twenty-third home run of the season in the ninth inning.

Chicago, June 14.—After being held scoreless for five innings yesterday, the Chicago White Sox caught up with Eddie Durham and batted out a 7 to 6 victory over Boston.

The Sox nicked Durham for two runs in the sixth and batted him out of the box in the seventh during a five-run uprising. Wilcy Moore also was routed during the rally.

TILLICUMS IN SURPRISE WIN

Playing first class ball behind the stellar pitching of Tommy Musgrave, Tillicums sprang a big surprise in the Senior Amateur Baseball League game at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday evening by taking the Elks, last year's champions, into camp, 2 to 1. It was the clubmen's first victory of the season, while it was the Elks third straight setback.

Musgrave worked in great style holding the Elks to six hits and striking out eight. The youngster blanked the antlered tribe for eight innings. Lloyd Jones worked for the Elks and pitched a good game. He allowed eight hits and struck out five.

TILLICUMS IN LEAD

The Tillicums secured a one-run lead in the first inning by bunching three hits to score Fleming. In the fourth inning Patrick completed the circuit of the bags for the clubmen, giving them a two-run advantage. The Elks finally broke into the score column in the ninth when McKenzie scored. Two of the features of the game were the fine fielding plays made by Pollard and Moore on hard hit balls.

Fleming and Taylor led the Tillicum hitters with two out of four, while Webster led both teams with two hits in as many trips to the plate.

Brilliant Meeting At Ascot Featured By First Dead Heat

Large Opening Day Attendance Thrilled When Sandy Lashes and Son of Mint Finish on Even Terms in Ascot Stakes; Purse Is Divided; Silvermere Captures Gold Vase Classic; Manitoba Takes Coventry Stakes; Sigiria Takes Prince of Wales Stakes; King George and Queen Mary Attend

Canadian Press

Ascot, Eng., June 14—The first dead heat in the history of the Ascot Stakes, first run in 1839, was recorded this afternoon as the brilliant Royal Ascot meeting opened with King George and Queen Mary and members of the royal family in attendance.

Mrs. L. W. Long's Sandy Lashes and J. Brown's Son of Mint raced the two miles of the Ascot Stakes to reach the wire on even terms, four lengths in front of J. Cooper's Rol de Paris. Twenty-four ran. Sandy Lashes started at 100 to 6, Son of Mint at 100 to 8 and Rio de Paris at 5 to 1.

Sandy Lashes and Son of Mint divided the major portion of the stakes of £2,000 and extras.

Another stirring finish to a battle over the two miles' distance came in the renewal of the famous Gold Vase when Mrs. C. Rich's Silvermere, three-year-old by Winter King out of Demurrage, won by a head over Edward Esmond's Fox Hunter, with the Aga Khan's Taj Kasra in third place, another head back.

Eleven ran in the Gold Vase. In addition to the vase, valued at £250, the race carried £1,200 in stakes. It was first run in 1838.

MANITOBA WINS

The Coventry stakes, one of the season's great fixtures for two-year-olds who will be contending for the Derby next year, was won by Lord Woolavington's colt Manitoba, by Manna, 1925 Derby winner, out of Berystede. Manitoba at 13 to 8, finished the five-furlong test three-quarters of a length ahead.

The renewal of the Prince of Wales' stakes, fourth feature of the brilliant programme, resulted in the defeat of the odds-on favorite, Lord Woolavington's Miracle, who ran third in the Derby. M. E. De St. Alary's Sigiria, by Bruleur out of Samya, raced over the mile and five furlongs to finish a length and a half in front of Miracle with W. M. G. Singer's Beau Prere third, another four lengths back. The betting was 7 to 1 against Sigiria, 4 to 7 against Miracle and 100 to 8 against Beau Prere. Five ran.

DISTINGUISHED FIELDS

The final feature, the St. James' Palace stakes at one mile, brought out a distinguished field of 1932 Derby horses and was won by Sir John Rutherford's Andrea, who finished a length in front of Sir L. Phillips' Wyvern, with Somerville Tattersall's Spenser third another length and a half back. Ten ran, the betting being 100 to 8, 7 to 1 and 8 to 1.

The Coventry stakes was worth about $12,000; the Prince of Wales' stakes about $16,000, and the St. James's Palace stakes $25,000.

PERFECT WEATHER

The weather was perfect for a colorful spectacle as the brilliant Royal Ascot got under way, bringing the finest horses of the English turf to contest rich and historic prizes over the course laid out by direction of Queen Anne in 1711.

The royal stand beneath Ascot's famous clock tower seemed poised on a mound of hydrangeas, and inside the royal box were clusters of Madonna lilies and delphiniums.

The picture on the lawns spreading from the stands was one to disappoint the pessimist. Some of England's most notable women in summery chiffon with picture hats, which seemed to mark a reversion to the cartwheel type, were there, accompanied by gentlemen who favored grey garb.

The Ascot stretches never showed more daintiness in feminine wearing apparel than to-day. The expert in fashion and social customs would perhaps describe the meeting as a "quiet Ascot," and it is true the house parties are smaller, for the motor car is pushing the four-in-hand from the picture and London is easily reached these days. Nevertheless, the evidence to-day all went to show that royal Ascot retains to the full its old-time gracious elegance.

MAX CHANGES RING STYLE

Heavyweight Champ Adopts New Defence and Attack For Bout With Sharkey

Discards Weaving, Bobbing Style of Dempsey; Acquires Right Hand Uppercut

Kingston, N.Y., June 14.—A new Max Schmeling, in fighting style at least, will be unveiled for the gaze of the faithful and Boston's Jack Sharkey in the new Madison Square Garden bowl a week from to-night.

"If Sharkey thinks he's going to meet the sort of a Schmeling he walloped around for four rounds two years ago before fouling him, he's crazy," said Jim Corbett, a champion himself back in the gas-lit era of the heavyweights. "Sharkey will have to get this fellow early if he's going to do it at all."

Most striking is the complete change in the German's ring style. He has a new knowledge of defence and an expanded punching repertoire.

No longer does der Maxie ape the weaving, bobbing style of Jack Dempsey. Instead, he stands straight up, his left hand extended, jabbing in orthodox fashion, slipping punches with his head, countering hard and short with solid rights to the ribs and chin.

Schmeling believes that in abandoning his former weaving style he has improved his defence and acquired at the same time a right-hand uppercut that has been thudding solidly into the anatomies of his various sparring partners since he started his training here May 11.

He weighs 190 pounds, about what he expects to scale when he weighs in for the fifteen-round match with Sharkey, June 21.

Burgoo King May Be Out For Year

New York, June 14.—A leg injury will keep Burgoo King out of the American Derby at Chicago this week and possibly off the track for the rest of the year. The Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner suffered a ruptured tendon in his left foreleg in training here and the injury is so serious that Trainer Dick Thompson said it would be a miracle if the colt ran again this year.

Footballers Adopt New Policy For L.I.F.A. This Season

Executive Elected From Team Members To Govern Affairs

Delegates of Victoria and District Football League Do Away With Neutral Board at Adjourned Annual Meeting of L.I.F.A.; Joe Bloom Is New President; J. R. Jones Returned as Secretary-treasurer

Adoption of an entire new policy whereby the affairs of the Lower Island Football Association will be run by an executive elected from the delegates from the teams of the Victoria and District Football League featured the adjourned annual meeting of the L.I.F.A. held at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday evening. Joe Bloom, former president of the Victoria and District League, is the new head of the lower island body. He succeeds C. V. Milton. J. R. Jones was returned as secretary-treasurer, while Alex. Marshal was re-elected Victoria representative to the meetings of the British Columbia Football Association.

The new board includes the following: Dr. Arthur Poyntz, Victoria West; John Ewing, Saanich Thistles; J. F. Mesher, Esquimalt, and G. Bloomfield, Jokers. Ewing was a member of last year's board. Bloom, the new president, is interested in the Victoria City eleven.

After congratulating the new president and members of the board on their election, Mr. Milton stated he thought the delegates had made a grave mistake in their change of policy. The B.C.F.A. in its wisdom had drawn up a constitution calling for a neutral board and in his opinion this was by far the better policy. However, the delegates had thought otherwise, and he wished them the best of luck in the coming season.

At the opening of the meeting which was adjourned a week ago, just previous to the election of officers, Mr. Bloom questioned the minutes regarding his eligibility as a candidate. He also wanted to know if Mr. Milton and the other members of the board had resigned because of his nomination for the presidency. Both President Milton and Secretary Jones replied "No."

A verbal clash then resulted when Secretary Jones read a letter from G. H. Paton of the Jokers' football team, stating that G. Bloomfield had nothing to do with the Jokers' team and thus had no right to represent that club at the meeting. Mr. Paton also named C. Lewis as the representative of the Jokers' team. Considerable discussion took place on the credentials of the two men, and it ended with Mr. Mesher making a motion that Mr. Bloomfield's credentials be accepted. Dr. Poyntz seconded motion. President Milton then gave Mr. Lewis a chance to speak to the motion. He did so by asking Mr. Bloomfield when he was elected as the Jokers' delegate. Mr. Bloomfield replied that he had been named delegate at a meeting of the executive of the Jokers' team. Mr. Lewis came back with the question of just who was at the meeting. Mr. Bloomfield refused to answer the question, but later gave proof of the meeting. The motion accepting Mr. Bloomfield's credentials was then put to the meeting and passed.

President Milton then announced the election of officers would take place.

A secret ballot was taken on the voting for president and Mr. Bloom received four votes to two for Mr. Milton. Mr. Jones was re-electd unopposed, as was Mr. Marshall. The following seven were nominated for the board: Dr. Poyntz, J. Ewing, J. Mesher, G. Bloomfield, R. Alcock and Fred Oliver. The balloting resulted as mentioned previously.

The meeting then adjourned.

PLADNER AND SANSTOL WIN

Former Gives Outstanding Performance to Take Decision From Willie Davies

Earns Right to Challenge Brown For World Title; Sanstol Whips J. Thomas

Emile "Spider" Pladner, temperamental French scrapper, and Pete Sanstol, blonde Norwegian mittman, earned the right to challenge for a go at the world crown in a pair of ten-round bouts here yesterday evening when they pounded out decisions over Willie Davies, Charleroi, Pa., and Jimy Thomas, Pittsburgh, respectively.

Sanstol's performance, on the other hand, failed to match that of the speedy Frenchman, and it was generally conceded Pladner was the one to challenge for the title.

A former world flyweight champion, "Frenchy" Belanger, Toronto, continued his comeback trail in a preliminary event, making quick work of Mike Barrett, Erie, Pa. The Canadian slapped the Erie veteran about the ring for about a minute before applying the finishing touches.

Personnel of Teams for Two Matches Against Touring Cricketers on Saturday and Monday Reveal Considerable Strength in Field; Scoring Department Not Neglected; Complete Teams Named; Fifteen to Bat and Ten to Field on Each Occasion

When Vancouver Island representatives meet the Australians in cricket matches at Mount Tolmie on Saturday and Monday, the Islanders will be very strong in the fielding department. The teams to play against the visitors were announced yesterday evening.

The elevens were specially selected to try to cope with the visitors' strong batting, and although the scoring department of the local sides has not been neglected, their most spectacular work is expected in the field.

TEAMS

The complete teams chosen yesterday evening follow:

Saturday's eleven, C. E. Ball (Cowichan), A. J. Darcus (Wanderers), F. A. Sparks (Incogs), captain; L. Gibbons (Wanderers), G. C. Grant (Wanderers), Hanson (Albions), A. Leighton (Cowichan), A. E. S. Leggett (Cowichan), C. T. Mayo (Cowichan), Mowbray (Cowichan), C. E. V. K. Peberdy (Victoria), Eric Quainton (Five C's), E. J. H. Ryall (Cowichan), Reg. Wenman (Incogs), George Wilkinson (Victoria). START IN MORNING

Both exhibitions will start at 10.30 o'clock. Luncheon interval will start at 1 o'clock and tea will be served three hours later. Stumps will be drawn at 6.30 o'clock.

Special facilities for seating accommodation and refreshments for spectators have been arranged and the biggest crowds that have ever seen a cricket event are expected to watch the Australians in action on the University School's splendid pitch.

MINOR LEAGUE GETS SUPPORT

International Baseball League Games Well Attended; Discuss New Tax

Rain washed out yesterday's International League programme and left the directors free to concentrate on ways and means of meeting the new federal admission tax.

Gathering in special session at New York, the league decided to meet the 10 per cent tax by adding it to the price of all tickets, grandstand and bleachers alike. All tickets of more than 40 cents are taxable under the law. No other business was transacted at the meeting.

The directors revealed that attendance was holding up remarkably well.

At the present time only Clarence Rowland's Reading outfit seems outdistanced. Replacements Brooklyn Dodgers have sent into Jersey City have built that club into a formidable array which is getting results under the able leadership of Charley Moore.

A glance at the pitching records, so far, reveals that Toronto Maple Leafs lead all the rest in the number of games their pitchers have started and finished.

Balance of members failed to report. S. Knott won the pool; also special donated by the Lemon, Gonnason Company. R. Green won the special donated by Barry's Meat Company and R. Barrie won Shotbolt's Drug Company special.

The next race will be held from Red Pass Junction, a distance of 375 miles. Birds must be at club headquarters by Thursday at noon.

Boston Red Sox In Trade With Detroit

Boston, June 14.—Making its third important trade in a week, the Boston Red Sox yesterday sent Earl Webb, hard-hitting outfielder, to Detroit, in exchange for Dale Alexander, the big first baseman, and Outfielder Roy Johnson. President Bob Quinn said no cash was involved in the transaction.

Quinn shook up his pitching staff last week, sending Danny MacFayden to the New York Yankees for Ivy Paul Andrews and Henry Johnson, and a few days later turned over Jack Russell, another right-hander, to the Cleveland club, in exchange for Peter Jablonowski.

Andy Divodi In Win By Knockout

San Francisco, June 14.—Andy Divodi, New York welterweight, defeated Paddy Creedon, also of New York, by a technical knockout in the seventh round of a ten-round battle here yesterday evening.

Prices Recede As Bears and Weather Unite At Winnipeg

Canadian Press

Winnipeg, June 14—The weather man teamed up with the bears to-day in a general assault on all market fronts and as a result prices in the wheat pit here receded. Prices at the close showed losses of 1¼ to 1¾.

July dropped 1¼ to 54; October 1⅞ to 56½ and December declined 1¾ to 57.

Auspicious weather for growing grains in western and southern Europe and western Canada was responsible for the dip.

Broomhill reported continental countries well supplied with wheat and England able to get sufficient for her needs at ports of call for the time being. There was no export trade worked overnight. A small amount was reported early to-day.

Weakness at Liverpool, which was responsible for the decline here, was an outgrowth of favorable growing weather reports from all quarters. Continued favorable weather throughout western Canada and warmer weather favorable to spring crops in Europe reacted on quotations at Liverpool.

The trade here was very disappointing. Hedging was light in spite of the fact that the farmers' deliveries were much heavier than at this time last year.

Cash wheat demand was indifferent and spreads fractionally easier. Some inquiry for barley enlivened coarse grain trade but prices held close to the low points of the morning.

To-day's Grain Markets

WINNIPEG

(By Logan & Bryan)

Winnipeg, June 14.—Wheat: The wheat market was again dull and featureless and prices continued their downward trend opening 1 to 1⅜ lower, and showing little recuperation at any time. Trade volume was probably the smallest in months. A little scattered selling drifted in from Chicago from time time with sufficient buying against the daily bids to absorb these offerings. There was a little support being offered by the pools at 54 cents for July wheat, while one continental house also took a little July. Export business overnight was extremely small and somewhat disappointing, being confined to a few loads of Manitobas probably 125,000 bushels in all positions. The local offerings were light throughout.

The cash market was also exceptionally quiet. There was a little demand for a small lot of No. 1 northern to fill boat space, but other grades apparently were not wanted. There was no pressure in evidence, and spreads were ⅛ better to ½ off.

The weather all over appears to be about ideal. Spring crops are showing rapid growth with ample moisture for the time being, and the weather now clear and warm with a few thunderstorms in sight. The weather is clear in the southwest and harvesting operations are getting under way, and are expected to be general in Kansas in a week's time. There are numerous reports of grasshoppers drifting in from southern Manitoba and from across the border, and the indications are that there is going to be considerable damage from this pest.

Country marketings in the west continue large and totalled 747,000 bushels on Monday vs. 382,000 year ago. The local market closed weak and on the bottom and probably would have gone further, but the pool support was again in evidence.

Winnipeg closed 1¼ to 1¾ lower.

Coarse grains: Were all quiet to-day with practically no demand for anything from any quarter. Prices all dragged lower for want of support and in sympathy with the weakness in the leading cereal.

Oats closed 1 to ¾ lower, and rye 1⅜ to ⅜ lower, flax 1¾ to ½ lower.

Liverpool due ⅜ to ⅝ lower on Winnipeg.

CHICAGO

(By Logan & Bryan)

Chicago, June 14—Wheat: Weak cables and favorable reports from the northwest brought selling at the start will all months selling at new lows for the season and while there were several minor rallies, final figures were fractionally over the low point.

Liverpool closed 1¼ to 1⅜ lower. The English market was affected by the favorable reports from Canada and by promising advices from western and southern Europe. Russian news was not so favorable, however, spring wheat seeding being placed at 800,000 acres less than last year on June 5 when 52,000,000 acres had been seeded. Export trade quiet.

Domestic cash trade quiet and farmers show no disposition to market old wheat in spite of the approaching new crop movement. Primary arrivals were only 300,000 vs. 635,000 year ago. Southern Hemisphere reports are favorable on the new crop and Buenos Aires was 1½ lower at mid-day. Minneapolis reports to the effect that the grasshopper plague is going to be a real menace to northwest crops and that present splendid prospects may count for naught pending movement of new wheat trading market seems likely.

Corn—Sold off early but had better support than wheat and the market had a fair rally. Crop reports continue favorable but the movement is so small that there is but little pressure of hedging. Local receipts eleven cars and primary arrivals 111,000 vs. 329,000 year ago. Shipping trade was not at all active except for the low price there is little to stimulate buying.

Oats—Started lower but there was no special pressure later. The market was affected by corn to some extent steadying on the dips. Cash trade fair. Iowa reports said prospects were extremely promising indicating yields of forty to sixty bushels per acre.

Rye—Sold off sharply in early trade following the wheat decline. Market needs help from a stronger wheat market.

CLOSE HIGHER AT MONTREAL

Canadian Press

Montreal, June 14.—The Montreal Stock Exchange reversed its trend today, and closed higher in light trading, a direct reflection of a better tone in Wall Street.

Offerings were light but the market lacked the buying power needed to carry prices away from present levels. The best prices were established in the final hour, although turnover did not expand appreciably on the advance.

Brazilian Traction at 10 and Canadian Pacific Railway at 10½, were both up ½. International Nickel gained ⅛ at 4⅜. Dominion Bridge was up ⅝ at 10. National Breweries rose ½ at 13. Massey-Harris rained ¼ at 2⅝, while Steel of Canada was up ⅛ at 11⅞.

Canada Cement Preferred established a new all-time low at 20, off three points. Simon Cigar Preferred sold at 70, off five points. Canadian Foundries and Forgings "A" was off ½ to 2½, a new loss. Canadian Hydro-Electric Preferred lost 2 at 30. Canada Power lost 3 at 10.

Bank stocks were little changed on the day. Royal gained 1 and 129, and Commerce was off two points at 125.

TORONTO MINES SHOW FIRMNESS

Canadian Press

Toronto, June 14—Without trend in the morning, Standard Stock and Mining Exchange listings gave a firm display in afternoon trading to-day. Volume was again small.

International Nickel and Noranda were practically unchanged. Eldorado touched $1, easing from its high later.

Chemical research featured the petroleum group, adding a considerable amount.

Golds moved higher, though dull. Dome, Wright Hargreaves, Teck Hughes, and Lake Shore improved. Hollinger dipped. In the cheaper golds, Siscoe and Sylvanite added a few cents each, but Ventures eased.

PRICES HOLD AT VANCOUVER

Vancouver, June 14 (Canadian Press)—Prices held near yesterday's close in a very uneventful session of the Vancouver Stock Exchange to-day. The firm closing tone of eastern Canadian markets and Wall Street had a steadying effect on the market.

Stocks Keep Firm Undertone Though Early Gains Lost

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

TUESDAY, JUNE 14

(By Logan & Bryan)

Canadian Press

New York, June 14. — Led by the chemicals, stocks improved quietly today and although leaders lost a large part of one to three-point gains, before the close the market maintained a firm undertone. Advances in American Telephone, U.S. Steel, American Tobacco "B," and Case were reduced to fractional extent, while Auburn turned heavy in the late trading.

Transactions approximated 800,000 shares.

Strength of the United States dollar in the foreign exchange markets, predictions of defeat of the bonus measure in the Senate and of an early adjournment of Congress, as well as agitation for a repeal plan in the Republican platform, were regarded in brokerage circles as influencing the advance.

To-day's stock sales by Logan & Bryan: Allied Chemical 22,800, American Can 31,500, American Tobacco B. 20,000, Bethlehem Steel 2,300, Case Threshing 17,800, General Motors 3,400, Johns Manville 3,800, United Aircraft 3,300, U.S. Steel 27,200, Vanadium 5,400, Westinghouse 12,500, American Telephone and Telegraph 42,900, Auburn 24,200, Atchison 10,800, McKeesport 1,400, Coca Cola 6,700, Consolidated Gas 23,300, Dupont 8,600, Standard Oil of New Jersey 10,400.

The Principals Get Off Their Pedestals After Marriage and Stop Posing—Daughters-in-law Sometimes a Big Help Wives Must Be Entertaining

DEAR MISS DIX—I am about to be married to a young man who comes up to any girl's desire for a loving, generous sweetheart, but I have often been told that love is one thing and marriage is an altogether different story. Is that true?

A PUZZLED WIFE-TO-BE.

Answer: If you mean that courtship and marriage are different, yes. If you mean that a man loses his love for a woman as soon as he is married to her, that is up to the wife.

A man's attitude toward his wife is naturally different from what it was to his fiancee. Then he was on the anxious seat, so to speak, putting forth every effort to fascinate her because he was uncertain of her. After marriage he is sitting pretty because he has won her. Before marriage he sees his wife a few hours a day or a few hours a week when they both have on their best clothes and best behaviour and both are doing their darndest to please the other. After marriage they see each other continually in the close intimacy of the home, where all camouflage is swept aside and a man and woman show what they are even as God made them. Before marriage a man spends his money on bringing a girl candy and flowers. After marriage he says it with beefsteaks and shoes. Before marriage a man is a high-pressure lovemaker. After marriage he is dumb and expects his wife to take it for granted.

No man keeps up after marriage the tactics that he did before marriage, and no woman could stand him if he did, any more than she could live on a constant diet of chocolate eclairs. No woman wants to be continually caressed and told how beautiful she is when she is busy getting dinner or sweeping a room. Nor does she want to have to always keep herself dolled up to look like a Lady Love or break her neck trying to keep her husband fascinated.

Marriage has brought her down to earth, too, and what she wants is a man who will manifest his affection by being a good provider and staying in at nights and who will like her just as well with cold cream on her face and her hair in crimpers as he would if she had her complexion on and perfume behind her ears and with whom she can pass a pleasant evening with both of them reading and listening in now and then on the radio and not saying half a dozen words.

So that is the difference between courtship and marriage, and, if you are expecting your future husband to continue to understudy Romeo the remainder of his life you are in for a blighting disappointment. A lot of women do expect it and consider themselves grievously ill used when their husbands drop from the clouds to earth, but they are the Sentimental Susans who have an abnormal appetite for gooey soft talk that would sicken any sensible human being.

It is true that in many cases marriage does seem to kill love, but it is because the husband and wife took no trouble to keep it alive. They thought because they were loved when they were married that they would go on loving automatically to the end of the chapter, no matter how they treated the party of the other part.

If husbands and wives would try to make themselves as attractive in person and manner to each other as they do to strangers; if they would use as much tact in dealing with each other as they do to a casual acquaintance; if they were as polite to each other as they are to the people they meet at dinner and if they would try as hard to sell themselves to each other as they do a bill of goods to a customer, love would flourish in that household like a green bay tree instead of withering up like a rose that is taken from the tropical air of a greenhouse and put into a room where the temperature is down to the freezing point.

* * * * * * *

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I have a son that I adore and I could not bear to think of his marrying, so every time he fancied a girl I criticized her and made fun of her and broke up the affair. Finally he became engaged to a girl without my knowing it and refused to give her up, although I said all I could against it and would have kept him from marrying her if I could. But now this daughter-in-law that I so opposed is an angel to me and I would give anything if I could take back all the things I said against her. I wish I could tell all mothers to mind their own affairs and let their children live their own lives.

A REGRETFUL MOTHER.

Answer: Amen. If they did they would save a lot of unhappiness in human vision to see that her children ever grow up into being men and the world. But they can not, because it takes a mother of almost superwomen and do not remain tiny tots that she has to hold by the hand, and she has to have a greater sense of justice than most women possess to realize that they have a right to lead their own lives in their own way.

One of the funny and inexplicable things about mothers is that while they are glad to have their daughters marry it nearly kills them to have their sons marry. This was, perhaps, natural enough in the old days when girls had to be supported and every daughter that got married took just that much strain off of the family pocketbook. Also, then, a girl had no way of making a living for herself and so it lifted a load off of mother's mind when Mary and Alice and Susan got settled in homes of their own with husbands to provide for them

But nowadays a girl is not a family liability but an asset, because she not only earns her own bread and butter but contributes to the family cake-box. It is the wage-earning girls who are always buying things for the house and getting mother a new dress and who give far more to the home than the boys of the family do. Nevertheless, mother is just as anxious as ever to get the girls married, and she turns a very blind eye on the faults of the young men who come a-courting.

But when son wants to marry it is a different story. Let him but show an interest in a girl and mother begins to pick her to pieces until she does not leave a hair of her head that has not something wrong with it. And if he finally does marry in spite of her she generally gives the bride such a chilly welcome that it frost-bites the good intentions that the young daughter-in-law may have had toward her.

A lot of the trouble between mothers-in-law and daughters-in-law is due to the fact that the bride knows that her husband's mother resented his marrying her, and she has to be wiser and more broadminded than most young brides are to be able to forgive and forget the criticisms that mother-in-law has made of her.

If mothers could realize that it is only rank selfishness that keeps them from wanting their sons to marry they would, as my correspondent says, mind their own business and keep their fingers out of their son's matrimonial pies. And if they did not exactly approve of their son's choice they would reflect that there is no accounting for taste and that Tom was going to have to live with Eliza and it was more important for him to be pleased with her than it was for his mother to be.

DOROTHY DIX.

* * * * * * *

DEAR MISS DIX—When I arrive home in the evenings, tired from my day's work and with my head full of ideas, anxious to relax, my wife is too busy to talk. In the mornings she is also too busy to give me any attention. At night after the children have gone to bed she is too tired to do anything but go to sleep. When we do speak of something, unfortunately, she never agrees with me. What can a husband do to find in his home the companionship he does not wish to seek elsewhere?

LONELY HUSBAND.

Answer: Nothing, I fear. If your wife will not chum up with you, there is no way you can turn her into a pal. Congeniality has to be spontaneous. It can not be forced. Women are prone to beat upon their breasts and lament about their loneliness, but they do not often stop to think that husbands can be lonely, too, and that a man can want something more from his wife than for her to be a good housekeeper.

It is the wives who never have time to sit down and entertain their husbands or step out with them who send them away from home for the companionship they do not find in it. It is the wives who will never talk to their husbands or listen to them who deliver them into the hands of the vamps who lend their ears.

Lots and lots of wives are first aid to their husbands' infidelity.

DOROTHY DIX.

II—THE BROKEN TRUST

"To keep peace between the tribes, you must build a lodge. In that lodge let a maiden dwell. Choose her for wisdom and for her power to calm trouble between men."

After Hiawatha was gone, the tribes came together and chose a Queen of Peace. She went to live in the Peace Home, and warriors came to ask her to settle their quarrels. They always went away satisfied.

At length the queen died, and the red men mourned; but another maiden, wise and fair, was chosen in her place. She was named Genetaska, and was a member of the Seneca tribe.

The fame of the new queen spread far and wide. Always she was just, the quarrels brought to her were peacefully ended.

One day two young chiefs arrived at the Peace House. Each claimed that he had killed a certain deer.

"Ah," said the Queen of Peace, "you must not fight over the game. It is large! Divide it, and you will each have much to take home to your wife and little ones."

The quarrel was settled, but there was trouble ahead. One of the young chiefs said:

"I have no wife and little ones. I have never seen a maiden whom I would like to take to my wigwam—until this day. You, oh Genetaska, I would like for my wife."

"No," replied the maiden, "I am the Peace Queen, and I have promised not to marry."

The Oneida went away, but afer he was gone his image stayed in the mind of the Peace Queen.

The autumn came, and at sunset of an October day, the young chief returned to the Peace Home.

"I have built a wigwam far away," he said. "Come with me and we shall be safe."

The maiden thought of her trust, but she thought more of herself. "I will go," she said, and with the young Oneida stepped into a canoe. Far away they went, and never returned.

After the Queen of Peace had gone, two angry warriors came to the lodge. The Queen of Peace was not there to quiet their rage. They fought and shed blood in the sacred place. Never again could it be used as a Peace Home.

W. J. STEWART IS FINE CRAFT

There are fourteen boats, including four high-powered gasoline launches aboard the new government hydrographic survey steamer William J. Stewart, now en route to her home port at Victoria, according to word received here to-day. All these boats are specially designed and equipped for survey in waters of the British Columbia Coast.

Special attention has been given to the compass equipment and a master gyro compass is fitted in a special room on the lower deck. A complete wireless installation has been fixed, while a very powerful searchlight is fitted on the foremast.

The new ship has accommodation for a crew of sixty-six. She has a cruiser stern and a slightly raked stem and the hull is subdivided fore and aft by nine watertight bulkheads. The decks comprise lower, main, upper and boat.

The William J. Stewart left Collingwood, Ontario where she was built, ten days ago and will arrive here about July 15. She will tie up this season and next year will replace the Lillooet in the major survey jobs on this coast. The Lillooet is now on the West Coast of Vancouver Island doing this year's survey work.

WELL-KNOWN CRAFT TO MAKE PACIFIC CRUISE

formerly Capt. Robert Waard's boat, which will leave San Pedro next week on a 20,000-mile cruise around the Pacific, for sight-seeing and adventure, according to word received here this morning. A crew of nine will sail aboard and with the exception of the professional skipper, Capt. Leslie Thomson, all will be amateur sailors. She will visit the South Seas, Australia, and perhaps China, and will be absent for a year.

The Coquet is well-known at Victori. She arrived here a year ago last March after a 111-day voyage from Hongkong. All last summer she was anchored in Brentwood Bay and last September Capt. Waard sailed her down the Coast to San Francisco where he sold her to her present owner, T. J. Sullivan. She is one of the finest sailing ships on the Pacific and is built of teak, camphor wood and Borneo jagger and for auxiliary power carried a forty-six horsepower semi-Diesel engine. Capt. and Mrs. Waard are now making their home at Brentwood Bay.

ORIENT SHIP HERE TO-DAY

Ss. President Madison Ran Into Dense Fog Banks Off West Coast Yesterday

Brings in Fair List and Large Parcel of Cargo For Discharge at Victoria

Dense fog off the entrance to the Straits was reported by Capt. Richard J. Healy, master of the American Mail liner President Madison, which docked here this morning from ports in the Philippine Islands, China and Japan. Capt. Healy said the voyage across the North Pacific from Yokohama had been a fine one, but yesterday morning the ship ran into fog off the West Coast of Vancouver Island. Off Swiftsure yesterday evening the fog was so dense that the vessel's speed was cut to a minimum. Capt. Healy remained on the bridge all night.

Despite the delay caused by fog, the President Madison dropped anchor off the William Head quarantine station this morning at 4 o'clock. She berthed alongside the Rithet piers at 6 o'clock and left for Seattle at 10 o'clock, being in the Sound port at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Madison brought in a fair list of passengers this voyage, including many Orient residents, who will spend the summer in Canada and the United States. Others will go through to Europe. Four passengers, besides a group of Oriental steerage, disembarked at this port. They were William Boulton, R. J. Cobb, Miss A. E. McCurdy and A. L. Guilliani.

There were twenty-five passengers in the first class and twenty-nine in the special class.

More than 100 local dockworkers were kept busy several hours this morning handling the large amount of cargo the President Madison had for this port. There were 700 tons, including a parcel of raw silk for transshipment south from Victoria this evening by the Ss. H. P. Alexander. Most of this cargo left here will go on to Vancouver this evening by the Ss. Princess Elizabeth. Cargo going south by the H. F. Alexander will be put aboard the Dollar liner President Grant at San Francisco on Thursday en route, via the Panama Canal to New York.

The Madison will remain in Seattle and Tacoma until Saturday, June 25, when she will sail on her maiden voyage to the Orient, calling at Victoria in the late afternoon on her way to sea. The next ship of this fleet due here is the President Cleveland, which is scheduled to arrive Tuesday, June 28.

TWO SHIPS AT OGDEN POINT

Two freighters tied up at the Ogden Point piers this morning, the Texada at 11.15 o'clock, and the Canadian Winner half an hour later. Both had cargo for this port.

The Texada, of the Kingsley Navigation Company was in from San Francisco and continued her voyage to Vancouver early this afternoon. She had only a small parcel for this port.

The Canadian Winner, of the Canadian National fleet, came in from Montreal, Quebec and Three Rivers. She had 150 tons of general for discharge and then commenced to load 250 tons of local for the return trip to St. River ports. She will proceed to Vancouver late this afternoon.

PLANE TRIES TO MEET SHIP

Machine Forced Down Near Ketchikan When Trying to Connect With Ss. Aleutian

Ketchikan, Alaska, June 14.—Tossed in rough water south of here for more than twenty-four hours, Murray Stuart and Jerry Smith, Seattle fliers, tied their plane up yesterday to the coastguard cutter Alert and it was towed here.

They arrived at 4 p.m. and prepared to make another attempt to overtake the steamship Aleutian, bound for southwest Alaska, and transfer 1,000 pounds of important freight for Fairbanks to the vessel.

They failed to overtake the Aleutian at Swanson Bay, B.C., Saturday or here Sunday. They stopped Saturday night at Alert Bay, B.C., after a flight from Seattle and took off at 4 a.m. Sunday. A few hours later they were forced down.

After obtaining gasoline from a cannery boat Sunday evening they attempted to taxi here but a northwest wind was too strong and yesterday they had been blown even farther south when sighted by another ship. Despite the rough weather, the Alert made fast to their plane near Annette Island.
